Linda, been an adventure in American history this year. Sorry
if I've given you too much of a hard time. Just kidding,
Good luck and God Bless. See ya
next year. 841

Dear Linda, ← That's right isn't it?

Aren't you glad we made it through another year? How many does that make for us being at the same school together?

I am really glad that we have been going to the same school together for such a long time. You are a special person to me. Whenever you talk to me (which is alot of the time) I'm glad; I really mean that. You're my kind of girl. You know me; even better than I do myself. I glad I know you. Have a beautiful summer.

Love,

Your Friend For Life (and already has been for a long time).

The Year of the Toro

Linda,
Well, it's been
a fun year in Lancel (and I guess
more fun. I'm glad that you are my friend. See you next year.
Have a good summer.
Brad

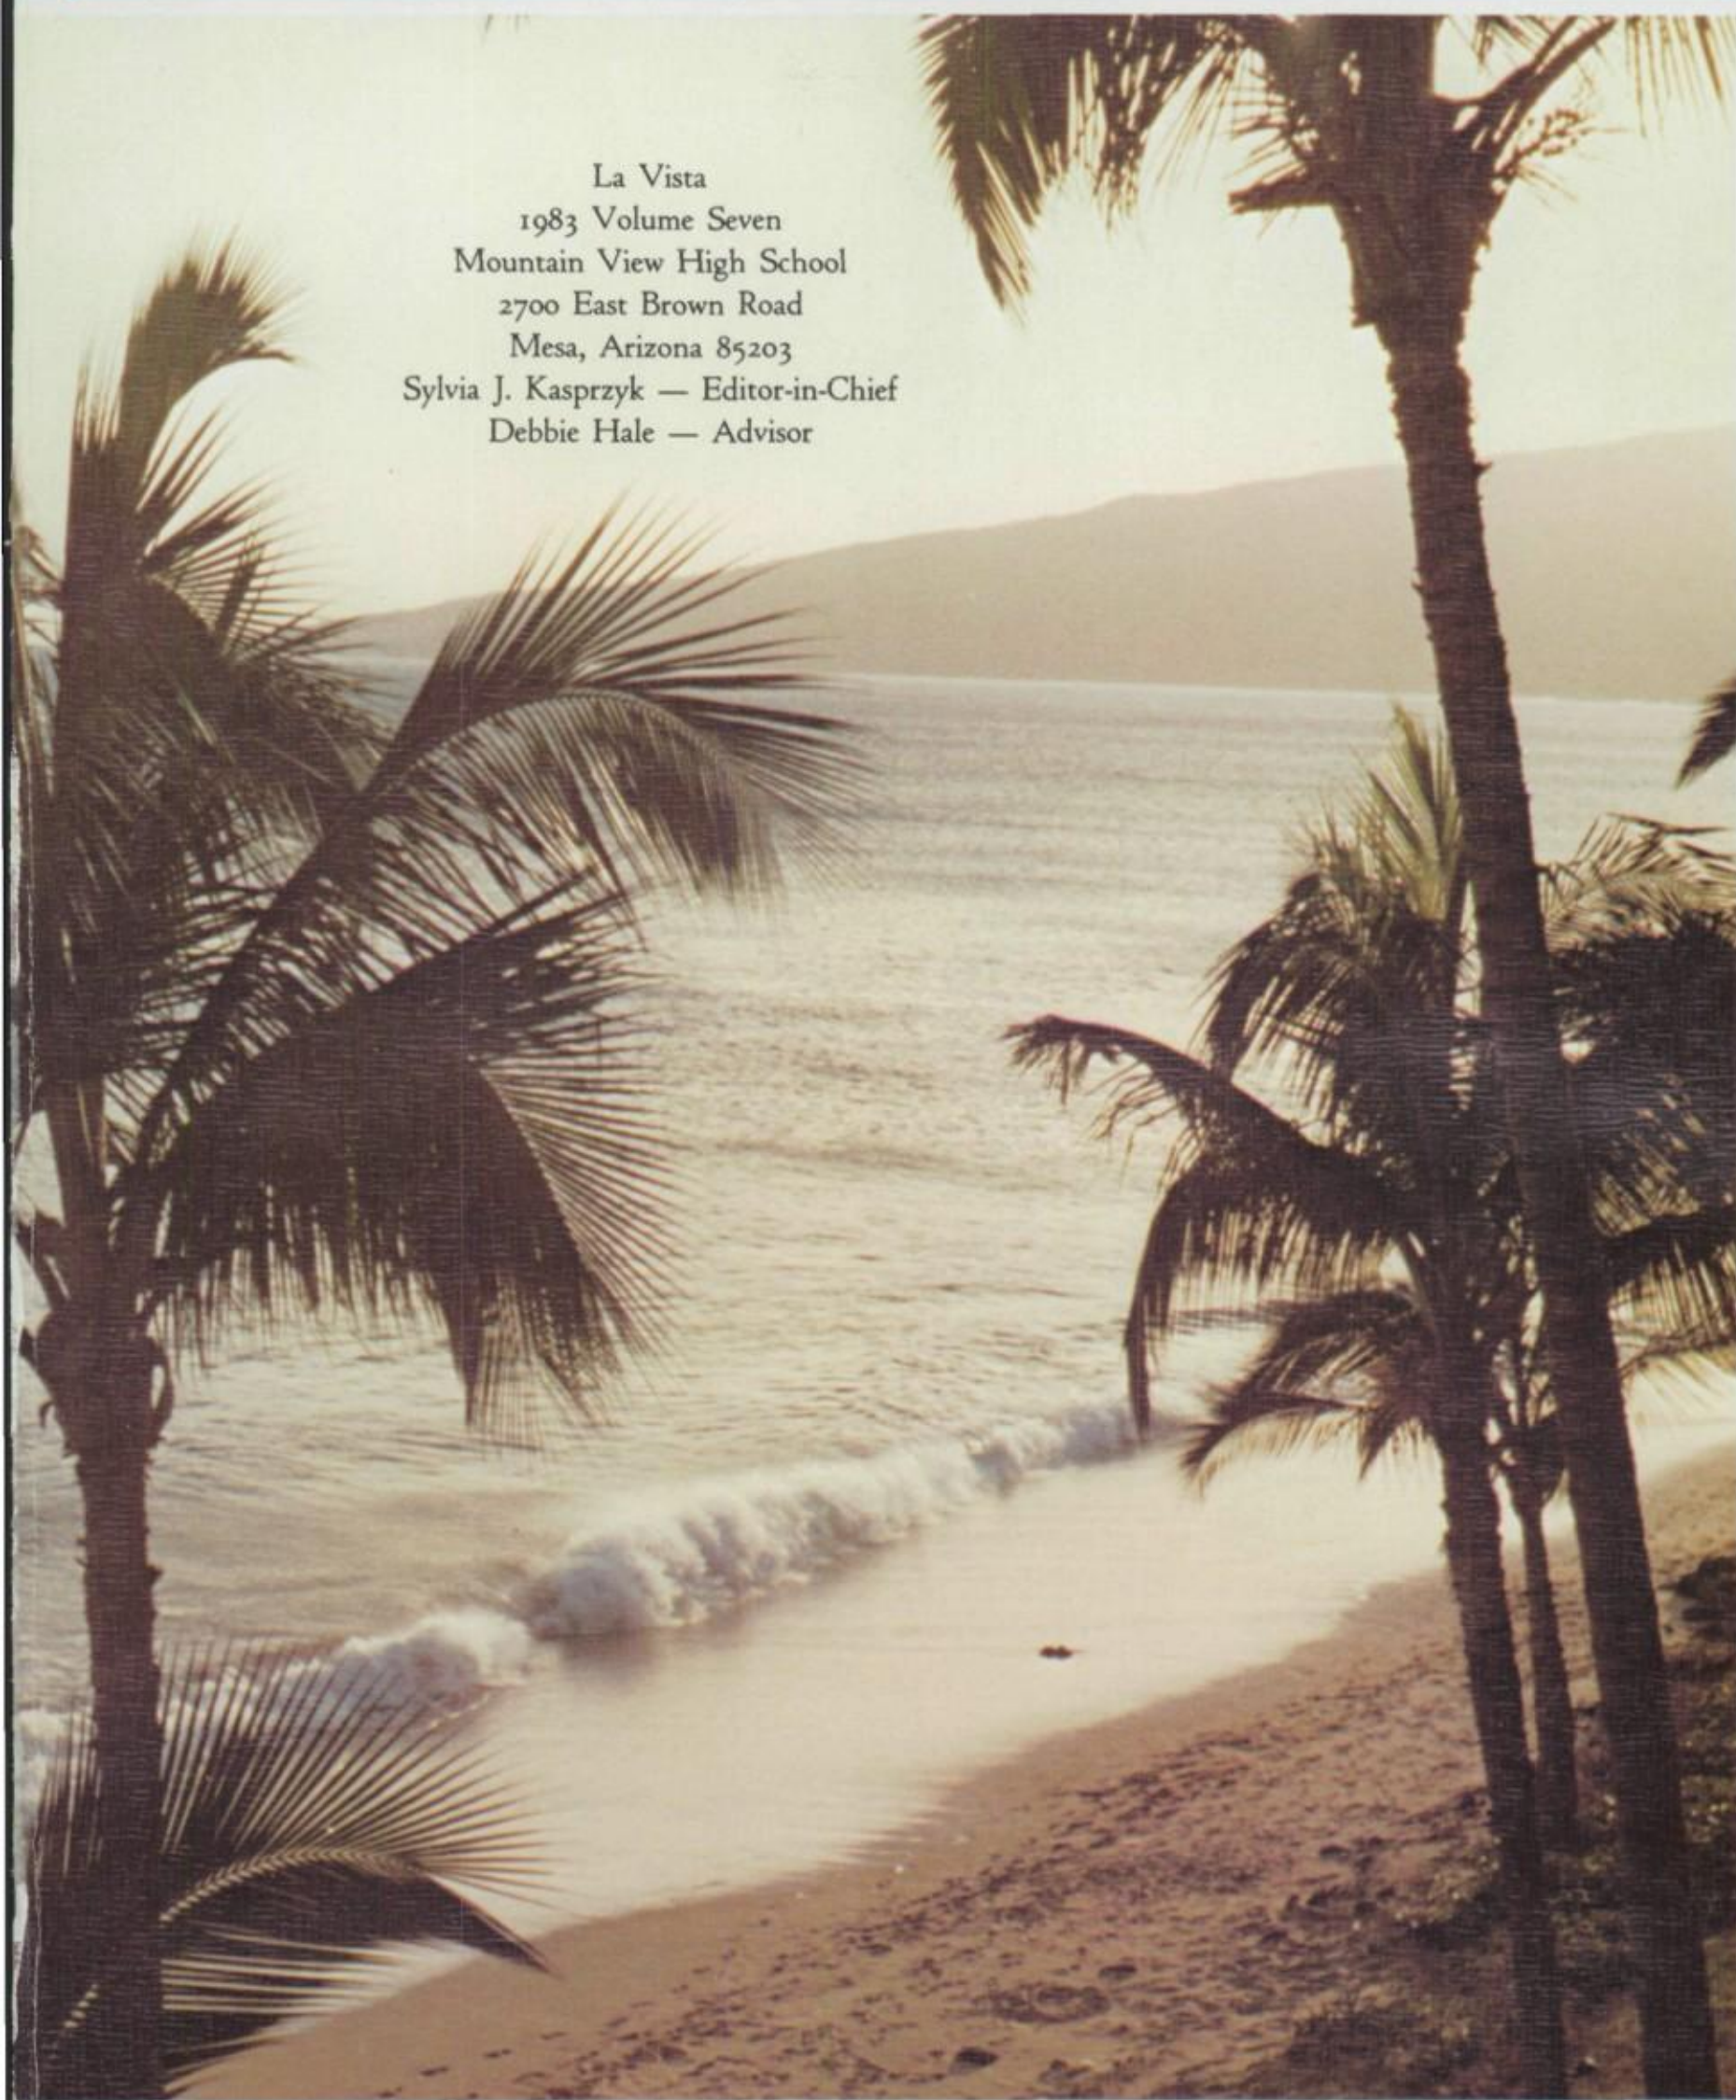

Linda,
It's been a fun
year. I'm glad
that we've had a great summer. Joe Eulato

Linda,
It's been fun getting
to know you this year.
I got a real kick out of bugging you in AP History, it was
a blast, but all in good humor,
right. See ya next year.
Brad

Linda,
It has been great
knowing you this year.
We've heard a lot about you from Melanie, and
even she didn't give you
justice. You are a real special girl. Thanks for making our lunch hour
more fun.
Love

Making A Year Of It

If someone were to ask you your favorite part of school an easy way to sum it up would be the activities. Between football games, the floats, and dances, your time was tied up. Some people had more to do with going to team practices, or club meetings. Dividing your time between these events you wondered when you would have a chance to do homework. Even with the rush, you wanted to be involved in more activities to make this your best year.

A New Chance

The start of another school year also started another year in sports. Going to sporting events was one of the highlights of every week. Participating on a team was even better, especially when we won. The new school year gave us a new chance in the football playoffs since we were no longer on probation. With several teams doing well, we hoped this would be the Year of the Toro.

A Head Start To Get Involved

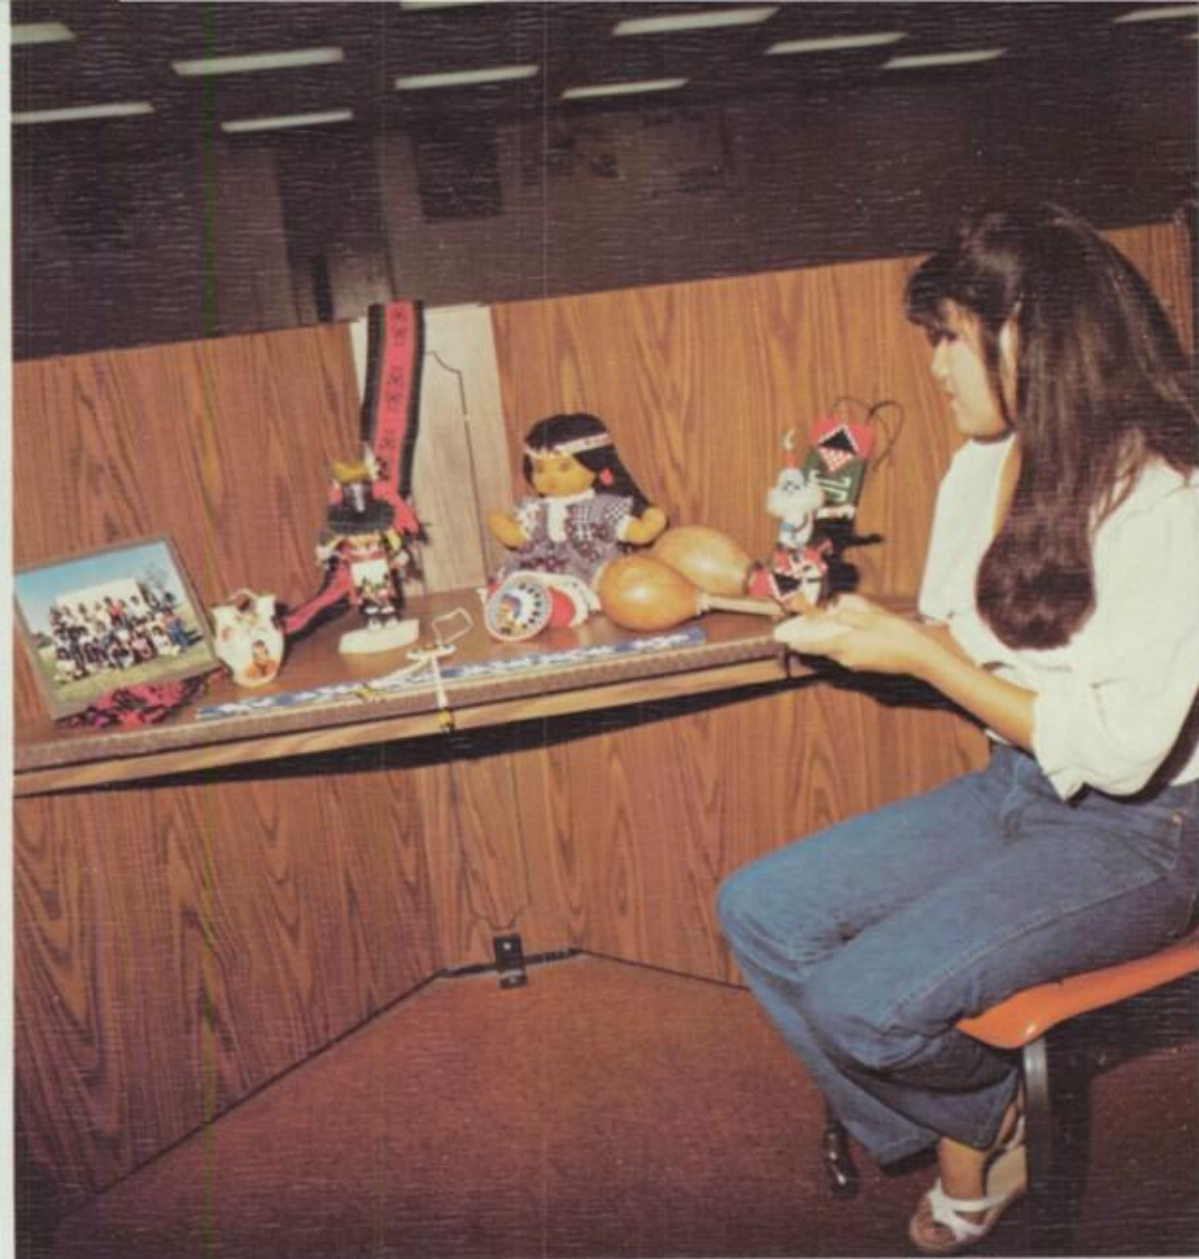

Joining a club was always worthwhile but sometimes confusing. Since clubs met after school hours many people were confused about which club would be the best for them. In order to provide all the pertinent information about the clubs, the Student Council organized Clubs Week, which was held from October 11-15. The week was designed to increase memberships, as well as to provide specific details concerning club activities.

People Make it All Worthwhile

Coming back to school also meant seeing more of your old friends and meeting a few new friends. The most discussed subjects included, "Where are you going for lunch?" or "Who are you going out with on the weekend?"

Being with your friends helped you realize how much you needed other people, and you soon realized that you were able to turn to your teachers for advice. By the time school was over, you found out that the people made the year worthwhile.

A Touch of Excitement

From Ceramics, to Human Relations, to Advanced Placement English there was a touch more excitement in the classroom. Whether it was the teachers or the students, the time seemed to go faster. Christmas came before its time and Spring Break came just as fast.

A Tradition

The name Jesse Parker always brings from those who know him the same reaction — respect. Coach Parker has become a winning tradition at Mountain View. Jesse graduated from East Central State in Oklahoma with a B.S. in history, and obtained his Master's Degree from the University of Kansas, having received academic scholarships in both cases.

Mr. Parker has taught and coached here since we first opened, having taught previously in Amarillo, Texas for four years and then moving on to Camelback High in Scottsdale.

Jesse is not only the head football coach and the social studies department head, but he is also a family man with three children.

You have the admiration and respect of the entire school, Coach, and for these reasons we dedicate this book to you.

Keeping Us Active

Trying to get more place you saw less and involved with less; At times home school, you knew one seemed to be just a of the best ways place to eat, sleep, would be to attend as and shower. All your many activities as possible running around to various activities

"Get involved!" you made your life more heard from your par- hectic, but gave you a ents, but once you content feeling of ac- did, home became a accomplishment.

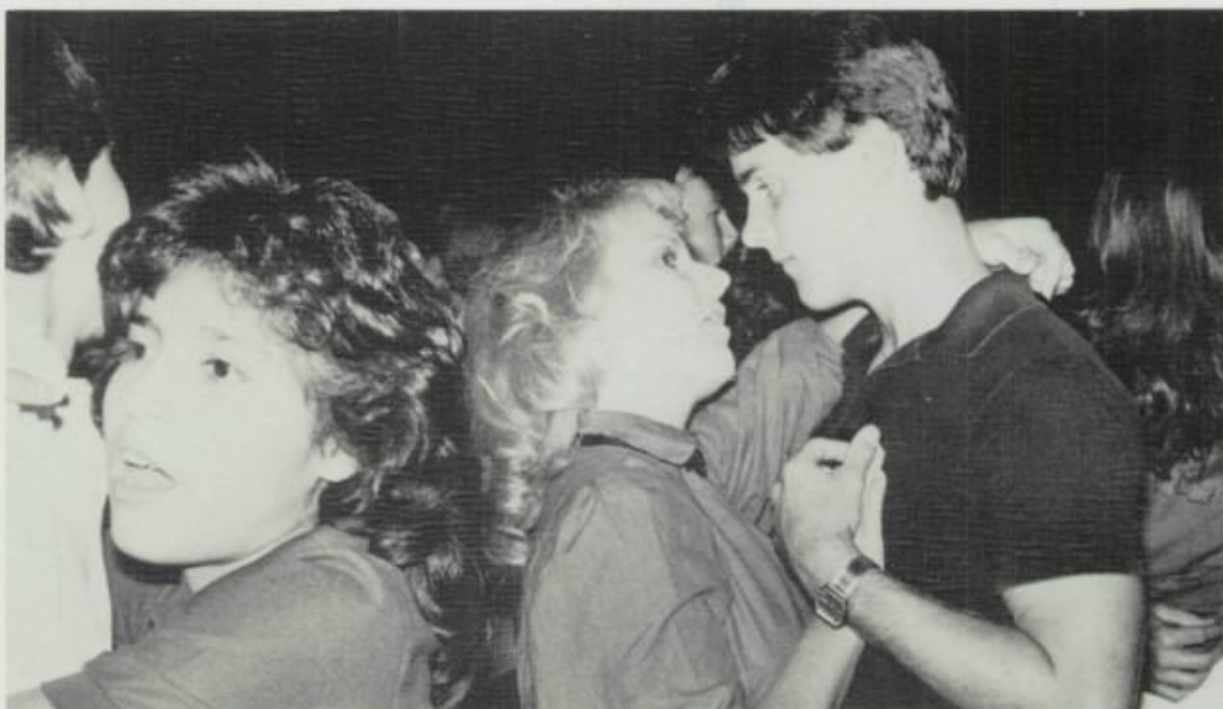

Welcome Old . . .

W hew! Thank goodness it's Friday. It's been one long week and it's a relief when the bell finally rings, signaling the beginning of our first assembly.

As I join the rest of the students walking toward the gym, I can feel the nervous tension of the Sophomore Class.

Entering the doors I'm quickly swallowed up by the crowd and blindly led into the gym. The band is wildly playing as I spot my friends at the top of the bleachers. I wrestle my way to them, and wait for the assembly to begin.

Yelling and clapping with my friends, I wonder what's going to happen next. Suddenly I realize my name is being called for class competition. "I'm not going down there," I insist. A few encouraging shoves from my so-called friends proved otherwise.

Love seems to be in the air as Jim Ashmore romantically looks into Kelly Gibson's eyes.

Stumbling onto the gym floor, I reluctantly join the other embarrassed Sophomores, locking arms to form circles. Before I realized it, the Juniors were proclaimed the winners. Laughing at the confusion, I climb over everyone to get back to my seat, hoping that the Hello Dance would be as much fun as the assembly.

Hey Hon! Well, it has really been a great year and I'm glad to get to know you! The band is the best and I love it to death that way too! Be glad and al back next year! Will be visit you! See me in ASU

Teamwork!

Toros can't be beat was definitely the thought of the student body at the Westwood assembly. The assembly was to start off our '83 football season and to let Coach Parker and his players know that the school backs them up 100% of the way.

The assembly was filled with excitement. The atmosphere was stimulating and as the students piled into the gym, they knew that the Toros couldn't be beat.

During the assembly a class competition was performed, the pommies danced, and the varsity cheerleaders cheered.

Sophomores Run It Off

By the time 7th hour rolled around nervousness was the only known emotion felt by the sophomores that ran for an office. In a few minutes they would know the results of the election. All the candidates were in the office when Mr. Anderson came in and said they should pick up their posters, then he would tell them the results. After the posters were down the candidates ran back to the office expecting to find out who had won; surprisingly they were told that there would be a run off for every office position.

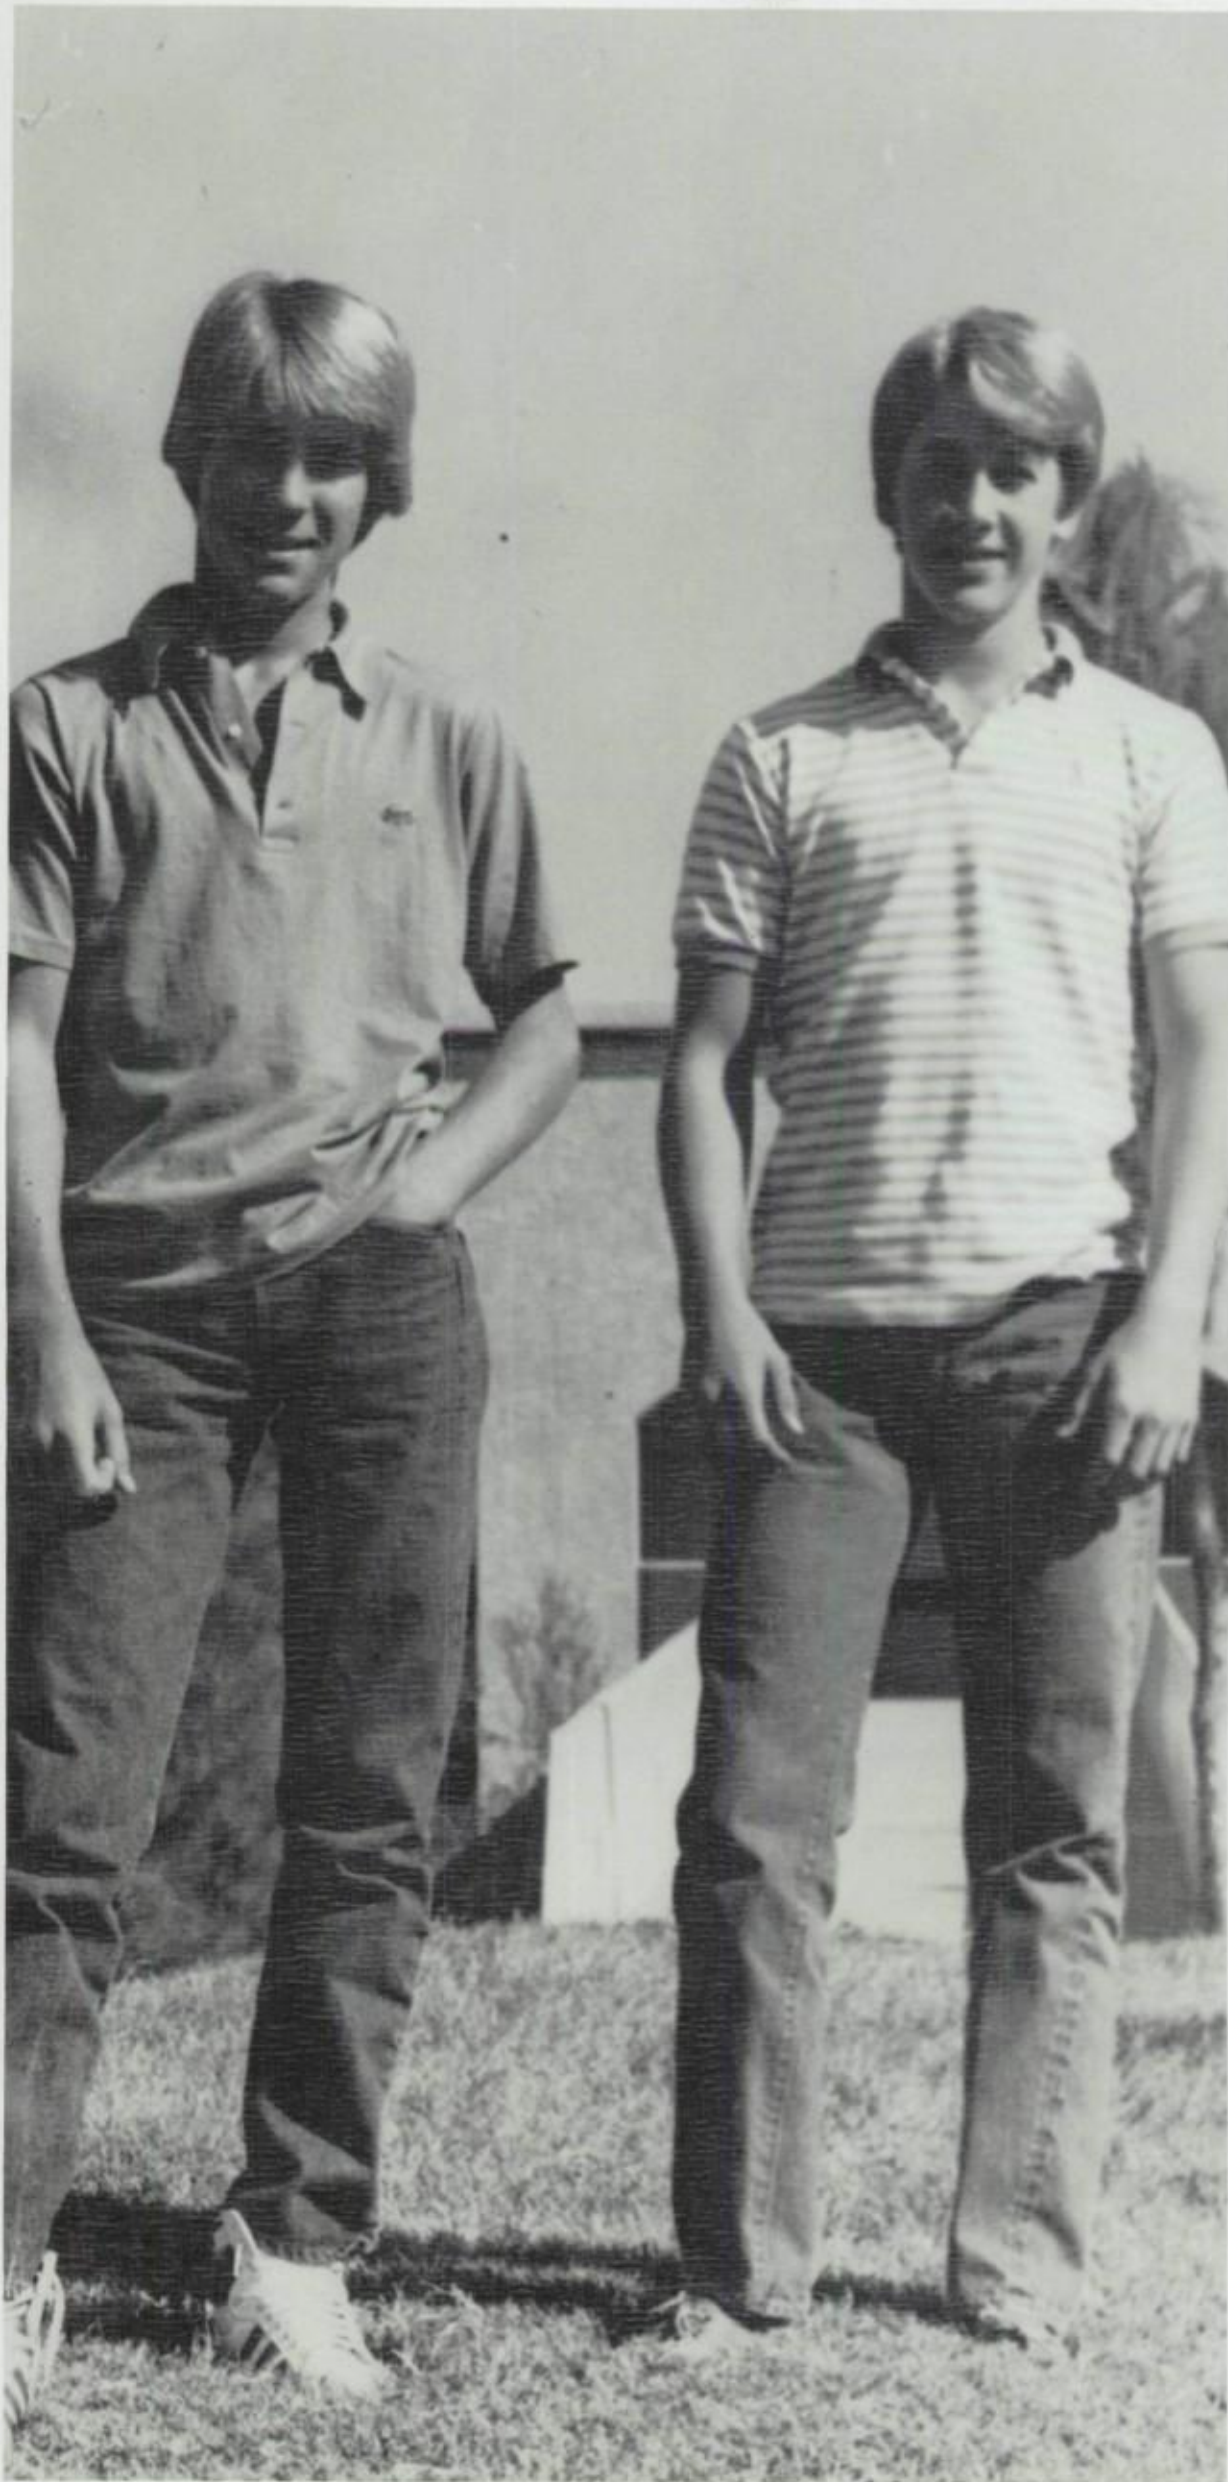

After another hectic day of voting, the elections were over! The Sophomore Class elected Scott Sutherland for President, David Brown for Vice President, Mike Giese for Treasurer and Amanda Hull for Secretary.

Toros Dress In The Hottest Styles

To be in fashion, or not to be? That's the question. The only answer suitable is what is, "in fashion"?

On an average school day you could see a person in straight legs and a button down Oxford shirt. Standing next to her is her best friend in a tuxedo look outfit. The next day the girl that was wearing the tuxedo look outfit may be wearing her faded straight legs from the eighth grade, with a bleached out T-shirt.

To be in fashion could be expensive. Tanya Von Behren hesitantly stated, "My tuxedo look outfit cost me approximately $170, which included the shirt, jacket, pants, shoes, and all the accessories." Then she added, "My mom paid for it!"

Wild and crazy colors and outfits don't even get a double take anymore. They've become a regular part of the school atmosphere. To see a person in polka-dots and stripes would never be criticized, on the contrary, highly complimented.

You never know what to expect, punk, preppy, jock, surfer, Ms. Vogue, or just casual. Everyone was treated equally. So whether you knew it or not you were put into one of these categories. Everyone picked his own choice, or maybe even a little of each.

The dropped waistline, bold stripe, white hose, and flat shoes are the new fashion Tanya VonBehren is showing.

Modeling one of the latest punk hair styles, Camille Harris seems to enjoy dressing for punk day.

Typical Friday fashion — Levi Jeans, football jerseys, top-siders, and sunglasses are displayed by Jamie Martinez and Mike Martinez.

Some of the more popular shoe styles include Vans, top-siders, Candies, and pumps.

Lisa Taylor scopes out a few of the guys in her new stylish Vaurnet sunglasses.

Cara Cooper displays the popular styles — an Izod shirt, sunglasses, and a denim skirt.

Totally Tubular

Awesome — usually referring to a time; e.g. The weekend was awesome. see: excellent and radical.

Bag it — get rid of it. It's really gross. Forget it.

Bodacious — fun, great time. see: radical; e.g. The dance was a bodacious one.

Bodily — extremely good looking.

Casual — simple, easy and offhand. e.g. That chick walks so casual.

Excellent — the best of anything; first-class; e.g. The yearbook staff is totally excellent.

Fer-sure — totally all right; absolutely agreeable.

Gnarly — wild and crazy, the weirdest it can get; e.g. The Mountain View football team is gnarly.

Hot — usually describes something great; e.g. The car was totally HOT!

Jammin' — cool, totally all right! see: awesome.

Junior — one down, one to go; an excellent individual. see: jammin'.

Like — use in place of or, and, or but; e.g. Like, like, I like him, but he's really not my type.

Massive — of great quantity. The most something can be.

No Biggie — not of great importance. Doesn't really matter.

Partier — one who lives for the weekend.

Radical — totally amazing. A way great time; e.g. After the game we had a way radical time.

Riot — having a good time. see: junior.

Senior — one who has finished twelve years of school and is ready for bigger and better things. see: ultra.

Sophomore — has now entered the first step of adolescence. looks up to other classmates. see: No Biggie.

Totally — the whole thing. everything included was great. see: To-the-max.

To-the-max — all the way. as far as you can go, or as far as something can be taken.

Tubular — something that is different or really neat.

Ultimate — to go to the extreme, or supreme. To the maximum.

Ultra — going beyond everything else.

Way — very much so. The very best it can get.

The excitement of a larger court seemed to be with everyone during halftime. Sophomore Class Prince and Princess, Chris Moorehouse and Susie Heron, gathered on the field with Jamie Jamison and Tracy Welch, Prince and Prin-

Everyone waited anxiously for the announcement of the winners, Pete Crimmons and Janelle Hyslope.

Une Soirée à Paris

U ne Soirée à Paris, (An Evening in Paris) was a very appropriate name for the Homecoming Dance. The cafeteria, where the dance was held, was divinely decorated. All around there were small round tables with red checked tablecloths over them, and a flower setting on each table. About the floor were many street lamps that gave just a touch of light and a certain romantic atmosphere to the dance. In the center of the floor was a crepe paper replica of the Eiffel Tower, surrounded by shrubbery and balloons.

The dance floor was very lively. Many couples were dancing, good music was being played; and to go with the music there was a light show. Most couples that attended the dance went out to dinner, sometime before or after the dance. Some favored restaurants would include: Bobby McGees, for a bit of entertainment during dinner, The Point, for a touch of class, Hungry Tiger for seafood, and Black Angus for those steak lovers.

The dance was very memorable. For some couples the dance started their night off great, for others it ended their night beautifully.

Janelle Hyslope and Pete Crimmins share a dance as this year's Homecoming King and Queen.

Lisa Holman and her date display a couple of the different corsages that were given at Homecoming.

Brian Glover and Becky Halls decide that sharing each other's company is much better than dancing.

Eugene Bankson and date Angie Mercurio take advantage of the music to try out a few dance steps.

The sophomores arrived in style as they took second place.

With the theme, "Proud to be '83, the Seniors' winning style is shown once more while taking first place.

Floats Back In Style

As school started and everyone got more involved in other activities we soon realized that the time we had for making the floats was getting shorter and shorter. With less than one month to complete the floats, the theme "Toros Do it With Style" was chosen.

While working on the floats there were groups of people talking about who they thought would make it for King and Queen and what they thought of the new idea to have a Prince and Princess for each underclass.

Homecoming was also a time to reflect on the past. In keeping with this, last year's cheerleaders, pommies, and majorettes performed. Many alumni returned to see the Toros win once again.

Stressing their ability to show detail, the Juniors' theme was "'84 Rompin 'em and Stompin 'em with Class."

The Yolk's On You

What comes first — the chicken or the egg? In this case, it was definitely the egg, and it came, down! The annual egg drop was held on October 20 at the football field. Once again the contest was to see which student could make a container holding an egg that, when dropped from a certain height, wouldn't crack.

About 75 physics students entered the contest and there was a variety of egg containers including wood, tin, and styrofoam. On the inside were certain substances to help break the fall of the egg and keep it in one piece, including foam, cotton, and even peanut butter.

The winners in order of finish were David Mulera, Dan Wood, Jared Whitlock, Keith Perkins, Robert Russell, Eric Wood, Andy Saum, Jeff Mudd.

Afraid of hearing the final results, Rochelle Tribby hesitates to release her egg container.

Tom Sharpy eagerly awaits Mr. Rice's signal to let go of his egg container and find out the results.

To determine a winner, the hot air balloon took the finalists up to drop their eggs a few more times.

Dan Woods proudly displays his container that he so tediously constructed to protect his egg.

A physics student shows a perfect way to let an egg go and assure a safe landing.

Annual egg drop sponsor Mr. Rice explains the contest rules and wishes all the contestants good-luck.

Grimacing in anxiety, junior Lisa Holman searches through the broken egg shells for her egg.

Rochelle Tribby and Robin Palmer can't believe that their egg made it through another height.

John Llewellyn questions David Hatfield's ability to drop his egg and have it come out in one piece.

While playing pool, John Pulzato names his pocket and collects his thoughts before he breaks.

A Toro student enjoys playing a relaxing game of racquetball with a friend.

After a long hard ride on his horse, Martin Samaniego still has time to smile for the photographer.

Terril Koens sits down with confidence and prepares a victory over another video machine.

After too many games of Tron, Mike Garcia takes a break to collect his nerves.

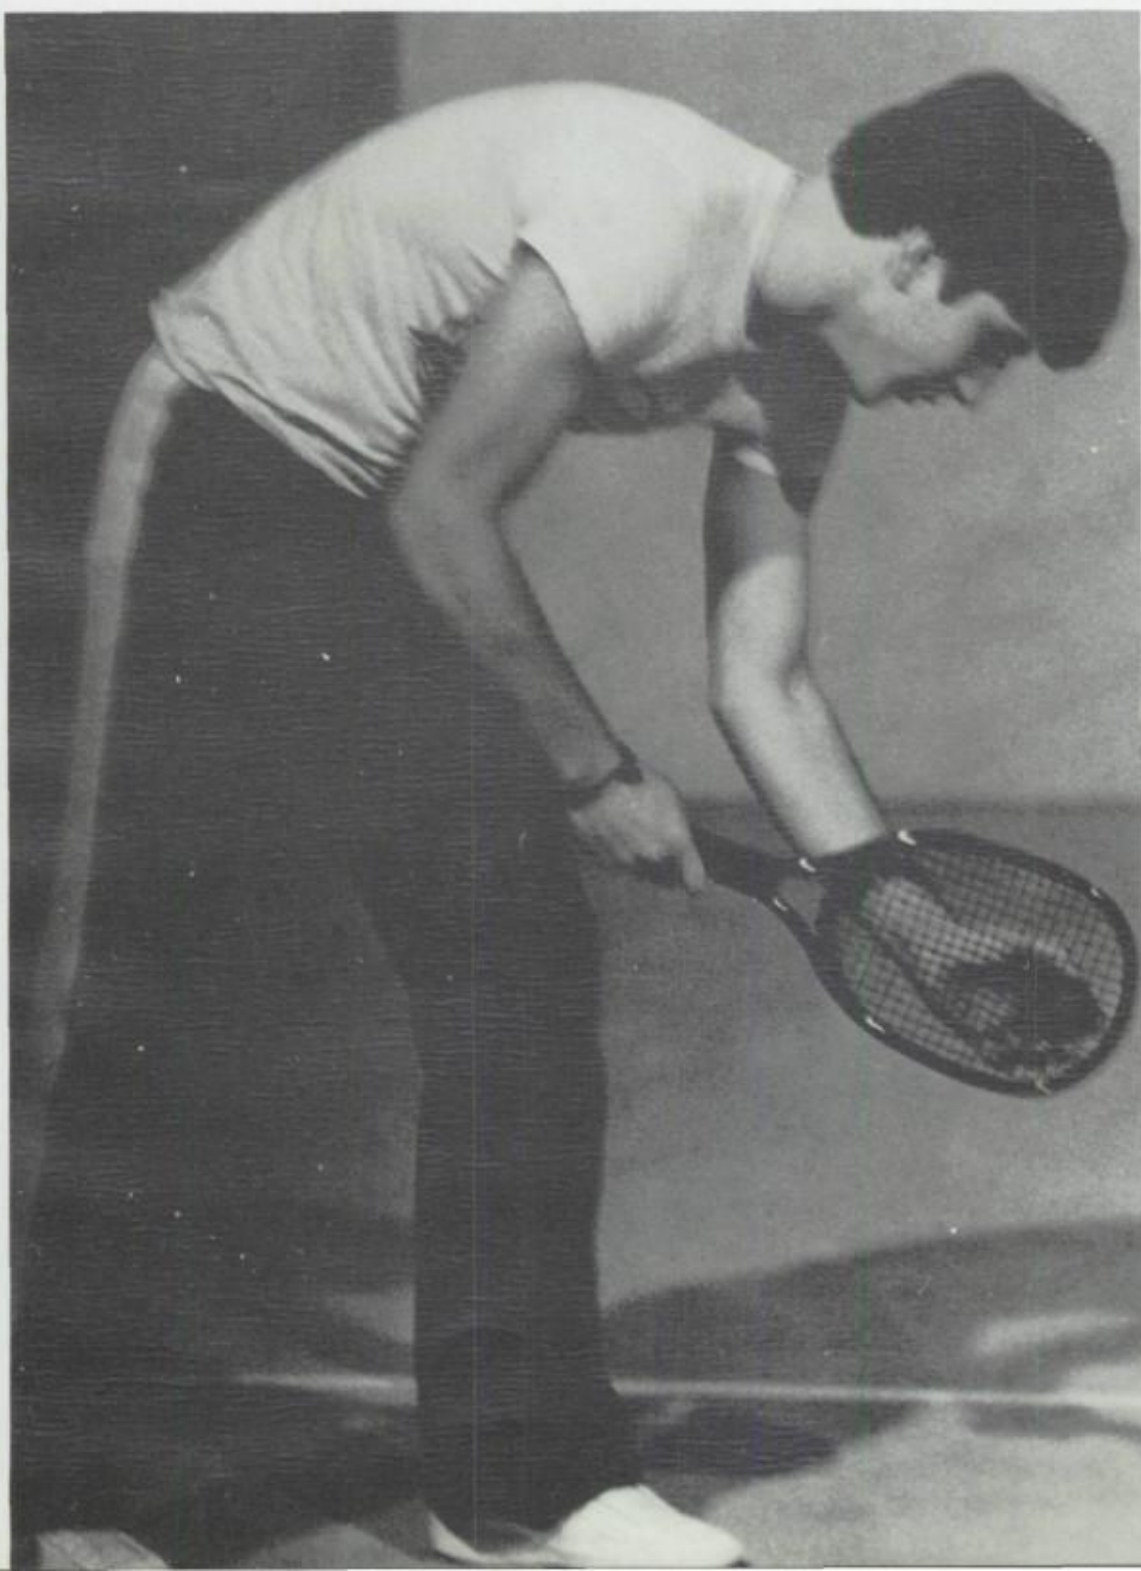

With a look of astonishment, Marty Egan thinks, "Did I actually hit that racquetball?"

Out Of It

Where did those after school hours go? Martin Samaniego said, "I like to lift weights at Mt. View to help myself prepare for the varsity football team." According to Michelle Malo, "I like to eat, play pinball at home, cruise Main on Wednesday and finally I love to go to arcades and scheme on good-looking guys."

Our faculty kept busy, too. Assistant Principal Dick Anderson responded, "I enjoy playing golf and skiing in Colorado, I try to raise two young boys, and I spend a lot of time at high school sporting events." Counselor Bob Miller said, "I really like to cook, I make a delicious salami and a great enchilada. I also like to attend many sports events."

Engrossed in a very exhilarating game of electronic football, these students could play forever.

Joe Ferriera prepares to serve the ball and take the lead while playing a game of racquetball.

The crowd stares with amazement as Magic Charlie spins six balls during the basketball assembly.

Magic Charlie obviously is the winner in a game of one-on-one against basketball player Frank Augustino.

Frank Augustino catches one of the balls that Magic Charlie is throwing him in all sorts of ways.

You Can Do It

Casually strolling into the auditorium for another assembly was nothing new to the Toro student body, but the Toros were surprised by seeing Magic Charlie instead of the usual Toro Band, Pommies, and Cheerleaders.

While the students were trying to maneuver a seat in the crowded bleachers, the Toro Jazz Band kept everyone swingin' by playing "Summer Strut." Following the band, the JV and Varsity Basketball players were introduced by Coach Sessions and Coach Pipes.

Before we knew it, the assembly was off to a roaring start with Magic Charlie proving to us that with confidence and practice you can do whatever you want. Magic Charlie started off by showing dribbling and passing techniques. Then he began spinning the ball. He went from one ball to six in a matter of seconds, and the students were amazed at the things he could do.

This wasn't a normal, everyweek assembly, but nevertheless, "Magic Charlie" made the assembly a total success.

During the basketball assembly Coach Dennis Pipes and Assistant Coach Greg Sessions introduce the basketball team.

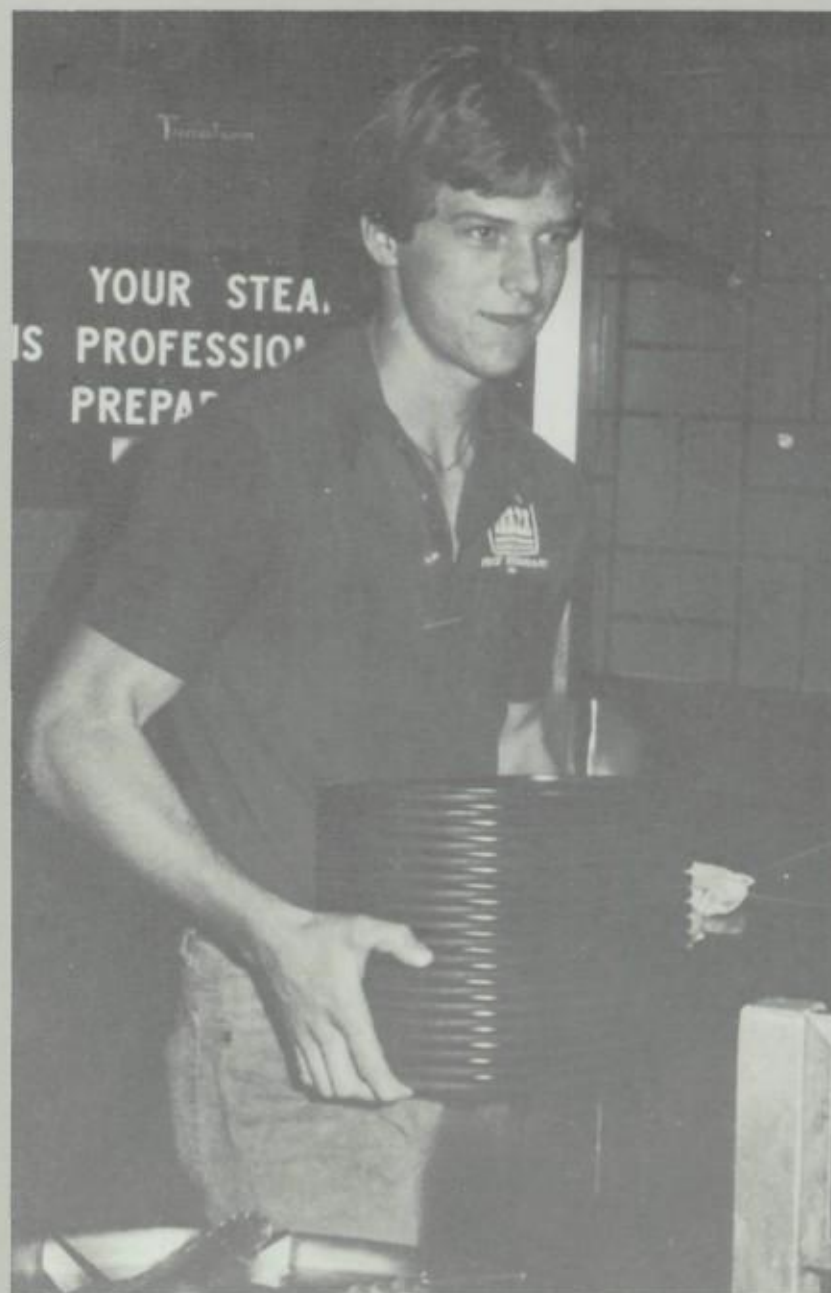

After Magic Charlie teaches Martha Acosta how to spin a basketball, he explains that anyone can do anything.

While bringing out the basketballs, Bruce Higginson laughs at Magic Charlie's remarks.

Kyle Burr tries not to overcook or undercook the steak order while still keeping his cheffing technique.

Clint Huddlin watches his step carefully as he tries to make his way to the kitchen.

Toro student Pam Klingman and one of her fellow workers experiment on a cash register.

Kelly Dickenson hurries to refill the ketchup and mustard bottles before the restaurant opens.

Working Through the Weekend

Working 9 to 5 isn't always the situation with the employed people of the world. Lately more and more high school students have been applying for and getting jobs at various places such as McDonald's, Burger King, Smitty's, Carriage House Ice Cream Parlor, Swensen's and Fry's Supermarket. Some of these young people attended 6 hours of classes and then went straight to work for many more hours of labor, while others cut their school schedules short to make more room for their jobs.

Reasons for having a job? Well, there were many, but some of the most common reasons included helping out the family budget, occupying some spare time, keeping busy, and most importantly having a little more spending money than just the weekly allowance from Mom and Pop.

Senior Wesley Dolman hurries to get the tables ready for the noon hour rush as the morning crowd leaves.

As Jacquie Duranti rings up another customer, Amy Moore takes time out to give the camera a smile.

Celeste Buckles cleans up after her customers that are crazy doughnut dunkers.

Interrupting her busy schedule, Kim Stienwinder wonders if McDonald's workers deserve a break today.

Penny Sykamore, played by Koren Marion, looks in her desk drawer to see what the kitten is up to.

Mr. DaPinna and Paul Sykamore, played by Robert Myers and Bryn Pryor, stand looking at the firecrackers.

Realizing that she has finally fallen in love is Alice Sykamore, played by Heidi Parsons.

Essie, played by Sara Dant, hopefully asks her mother, played by Koren Marion, to taste her candy.

Ed, played by Lane Lawson, is in his room skillfully practicing the xylophone.

Essie and Ed, played by Sara Dant and Lane Lawson, discover that they owe twenty-four years of back taxes.

Penny, played by Koren Marion, discovers that Mr. Henderson, played by Nathan Sheets, is an IRS member.

The maid Rheba, played by Annalisa Haynie, is found setting the table before dinner.

Drama Does It Again

You Can't Take It With You, written by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart was performed by members of the drama class on December 2nd, 3rd, and 4th.

The opening scene started off in New York during the 1930 Depression in a house full of bizarre people. The main character was the grandfather, who was the head of the house and who felt paying taxes was unnecessary and hadn't paid them in forty years. The eighteen other characters were equally unique.

The theme revolved around the idea that you can't take it with you, so why worry? Spend your life being happy and enjoying what you have.

Have You Been Good?

Dear Santa,

Every year my feelings about Christmas seem to change. As Christmas approaches I often find myself in a daydream, remembering my Christmases of the past, when I never could fall asleep, for fear that I would miss your arrival (and I always would). But I always was awake with childlike anticipation at 5:30 and ready to reveal the baby doll that wets, the kitty that squeaks, or the puppy dog with the big red bow around its neck. Then the daydream is over; I realize that Christmas hasn't changed — I have.

I no longer wait up all night for your arrival. Even though I sleep later and later, I'm still excited to find stereos, clothes, jewelry, tires or rims and other things for cars. Though the happiness still remains, it is just shown in other ways. I enjoy giving presents rather than receiving them, and watching and feeling the happiness as friends and family open the carefully chosen gifts. Now that I have learned the true meaning of Christmas, there are just a few little inexpensive gifts I would like from you: Varnais sunglasses, a Sony Walkman, a mink teddy bear, a pair of Rossignol snow skis, and a diamond ring.

Love,
Tanya Toro

P.S. I've been a good girl!

After an evening of fancy dining and fast dancing, Vickie Sheldon and Rick Rader slow down to a romantic song.

Tracie Dobbins goes out of her way to ask Wayne Griggeory to Co-ed by filling his car up with balloons.

Since Co-ed was semi-formal, attire ranged from slacks to suits and dresses to jumpsuits.

Ladies Pay the Way

The Co-ed Dance, sponsored by the Senior Class, was a new activity added to the schedule and hopefully a new tradition.

Between the hours of 8:00 to 10:00 pm couples were shuffling in and out of the cafeteria, where mingling and conversing with friends was the main event of the evening. Many couples who wished to remember the evening with pictures were found in the hall, patiently waiting in line. Three big screens which provided a video show were also added to the festivities.

Either before or after the dance couples were found at various restaurants around town. Bobby McGee's, Mother Tuckers, and Ruben's Plankhouse were among the favorites. As the night came to a close, yet no one wanted to go home, couples were found at the midnight movies or gazing at the view from Fountain Hills. The evening was over and done, but the memories would carry on!

Colette VanNorman is defeated as the junior wearing the most black, in the scavenger hunt.

An Hour of Competition

What started out to be a regular assembly, instead turned out to be an assembly filled with all sorts of contests. This was to get a feeling of support and winning into the blood of the wrestlers and soccer players, both of whom had winning seasons. The Pep club and Student Council put together various class competitions, the first of which was called the egg roll. The object was for two linked classmates to roll a raw egg across the gym floor and back. As tradition goes, the Seniors won. Next, a number of contests were held for different physical features. People from each class were brought down and judged for longest and shortest hair, tallest girl, shortest guy, the persons wearing the most black, and the most white, the most spirited dresser, the biggest foot; and the biggest mouth, which was decided by who could stick the most marshmallows in his mouth. With one competition left the Juniors and Seniors tied. It came down to the final competition: who could yell the loudest. The tie was soon broken with the spirited Seniors bringing down the roof.

Jim Glauser mumbles, "Pass those babies over; they sure are good," during the marshmallow contest.

As Bob Pothier measures for the longest foot, many other judges look on to help.

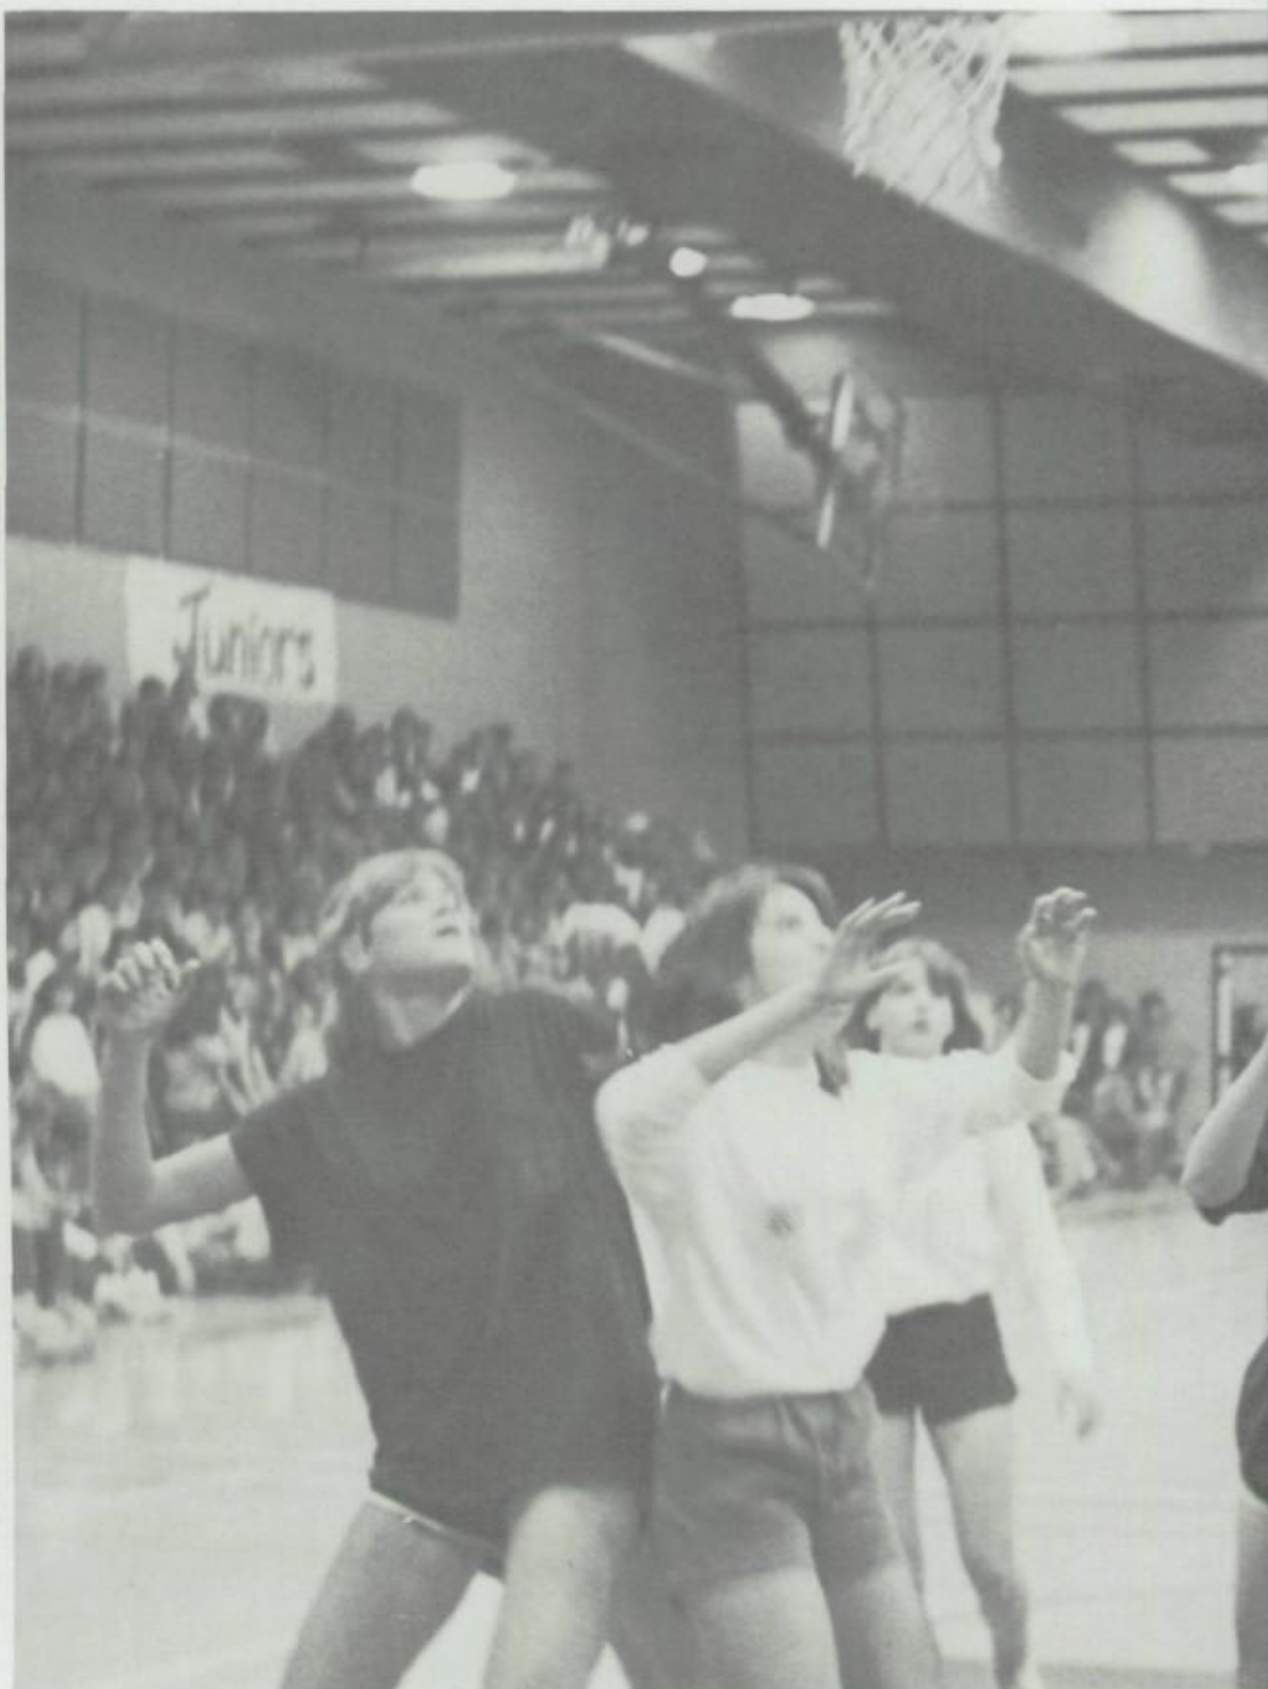

Pommie Tava Woodhall really plays the part of a hoodlum in their dance "Beat It."

All-American Cheerleader Camille Harris gets excited when she realizes that the Seniors won.

Soccer Coach Don Scafaria introduces his team and reports their record as of yet.

Dan Wooters patiently awaits his reward, as student Body Pres. Bruce Higginson presents it to him.

Lori Pew shows her dribbling technique as she races down the court to give the Juniors a lead.

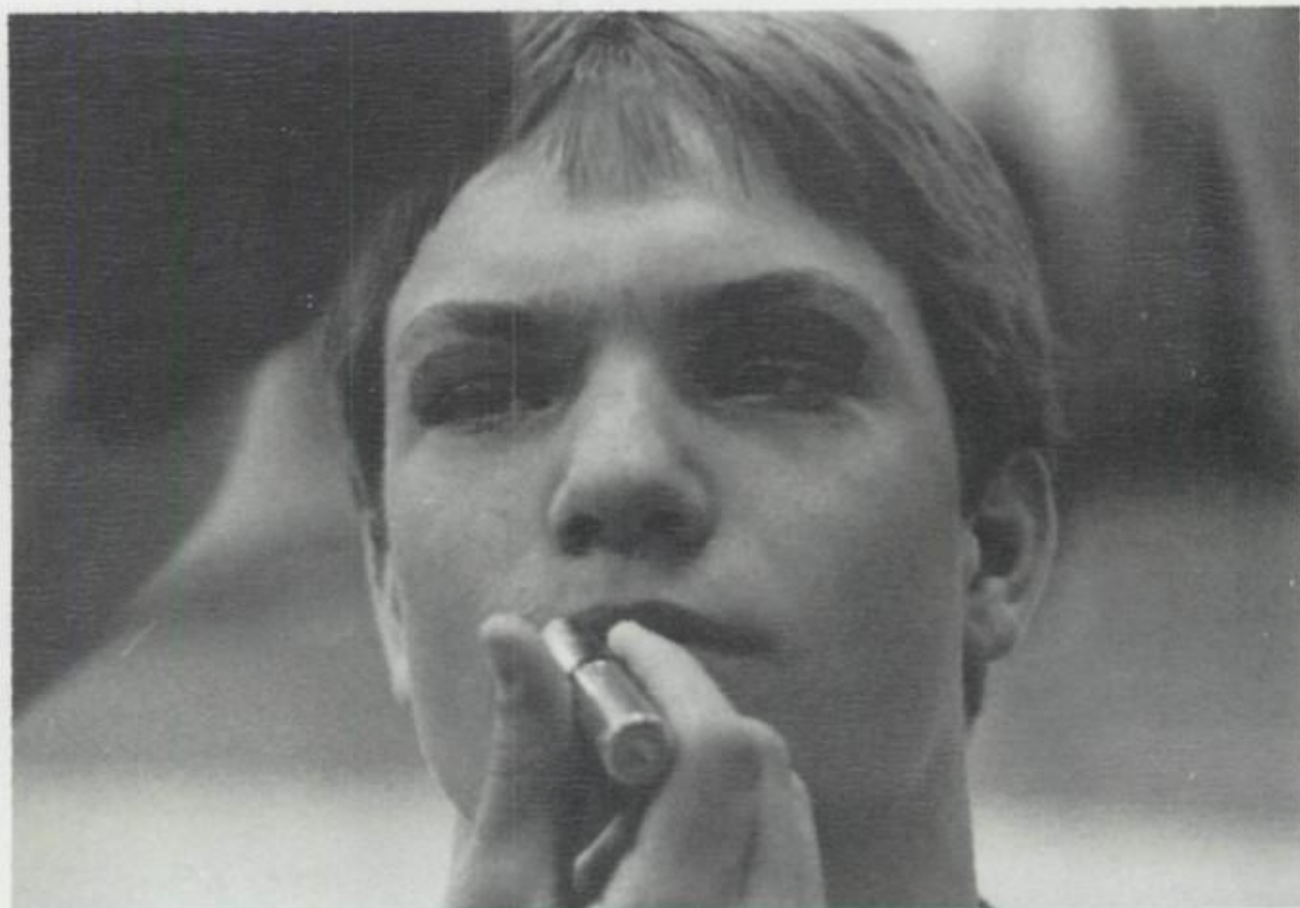

Senior Jim Kolhepp demonstrates his great cheerleading qualities as he attempts the ever-popular spread jump.

Senior Stephanie Martin puts up a one point shot as the rest of her teammates stand by for the rebound.

Sophomore Tyler Shell keeps still so as not to smudge the makeup that Bob Dunn carefully applies.

Reversing Roles

The Powder Puff cheerleaders' attire consisted of make-up, wigs, barettes, ribbons, and a lot of stuffing. The Seniors won the points for the rowdiest cheerleaders by performing a dance routine to the song "She's Tight." The Junior class won 2nd place for their rowdy spirit and attempt to beat the Seniors. Loud, but not loud enough, the Sophomores came in 3rd.

Starting off the sports events the Sophomores were up against the Juniors. In a very close and exhausting game the Juniors came out on top. Next the Sophomores and Seniors played while the Juniors got a bit of R & R, and planned for the winner's game. The final game was up to the Juniors and Seniors. The two teams played a hard game and the crowd went wild as basket after basket was made. As the time ran out it was the Seniors that conquered the assembly.

This assembly was the most outrageous event of the year! Watching the sex-roles be exchanged for a mere 50¢ was nothing compared to what you got in return.

Senior cheerleader Dan DeGracie puckers up to show that he should definitely be the next Tootsie.

Jeff Register demonstrates his powerful butterfly which helped the team with their undefeated season.

After a long summer of R & R, the Junior Football team moans and groans as Coach Haws pushes them on.

Deep in concentration, Jon Baker prepares himself for another good round of golf.

The team watches on as Linda Schuster, #6, sets the ball so that, #1, Brenda Cole can hit it back over.

Susan Perralt finds herself in the sand pit during golf practice.

With his helmet between his knees, Tom Sharpy struggles to put on his blue jersey.

Coming On Strong

Wanting to show hard work paying off your Toro as the individuals became part of the team. Besides the team pride and ability you came part of the team. spirit, knowing that went out for a sport. From the beginning you realized that, to the supporters were have a good season, there whether we won everyone was going to or lost had a great impact on the team's have to work together. As the season progressed you saw your morale.

Kim Sickmiller, #48, shows how good he really is, by making sure #22 doesn't get by.

We strive to win and to be the best. In a believer's eyes, we will always be #1.

It's Never You or Me, It's We

From the beginning, our pride held high for the Varsity football team. They showed courage and fortitude without a shadow of a doubt. They held together through wins and losses no matter how much or how little support they thought they had. Discouraged or encouraged by the crowd, they did their best to show the TORO PRIDE. In the eyes of the believers it flared like an endless torch. Even disbe-lievers became true Toro fans.

As the team entered the playoffs with a 9-1 record, they were fired up and raring to go. The first game was played at Mountain View against Dobson and it revealed a comfortable win of 34-7. As spirit and energy piqued for the Sunnyside game in Tucson, our team once again showed the TORO PRIDE by winning 43-7. As the saying goes, you must take your losses with your wins, just like Moon Valley took us.

There was one man that stood by the team though a win or loss, Coach Jesse Parker. He was thought to have taught the team, not only football, but the meaning of life. He made sure the team knew that not just one player made a team: it was never you or me, it was always we.

A Year Full of Glory

The junior team had the distinct honor of being the first all-junior team ever in the history of this school. Not only was it the first all-junior team, but it also held the honor of being the largest junior team in number and in size.

Paced by the strong running of Ronnie Miller and Derk Hebdon, and the passing combination of David Shields to Bruce Blackhurst and Jack Skousen, the team rolled to a 7-1 record. The juniors scored an average of 21 points per game. The defensive team, lead by Brad Tennison, Barry Fate, Chris Lewis, Brent Cambell, and Kurt Aussprung allowed only 43 points all year, for an average of 5 points a game.

There were many surprises as well as disappointments. With overwhelming confidence, they bounced back from their disappointing 14-13 loss against Mesa High.

Striving

Coach Brady's Junior Varsity team savored a winning season. They finished strong with a 6-2 overall record. Perhaps the most devastating loss was that to Mesa High. "The team did their best but the final score turned out to be one point short of victory," concluded Coach Brady. The Toro pride was not bruised. They battled back to claim their biggest win of the season. They went into the game facing a tough, undefeated, McClintock squad. The outcome favored the Toros, who won the game by a 14-12 margin. Coach Brady felt the team matured and built their confidence to conform with the high Toro standard. "Mountain View Junior Varsity developed the Toro character and will continue the fine football tradition," pronounced Coach Brady.

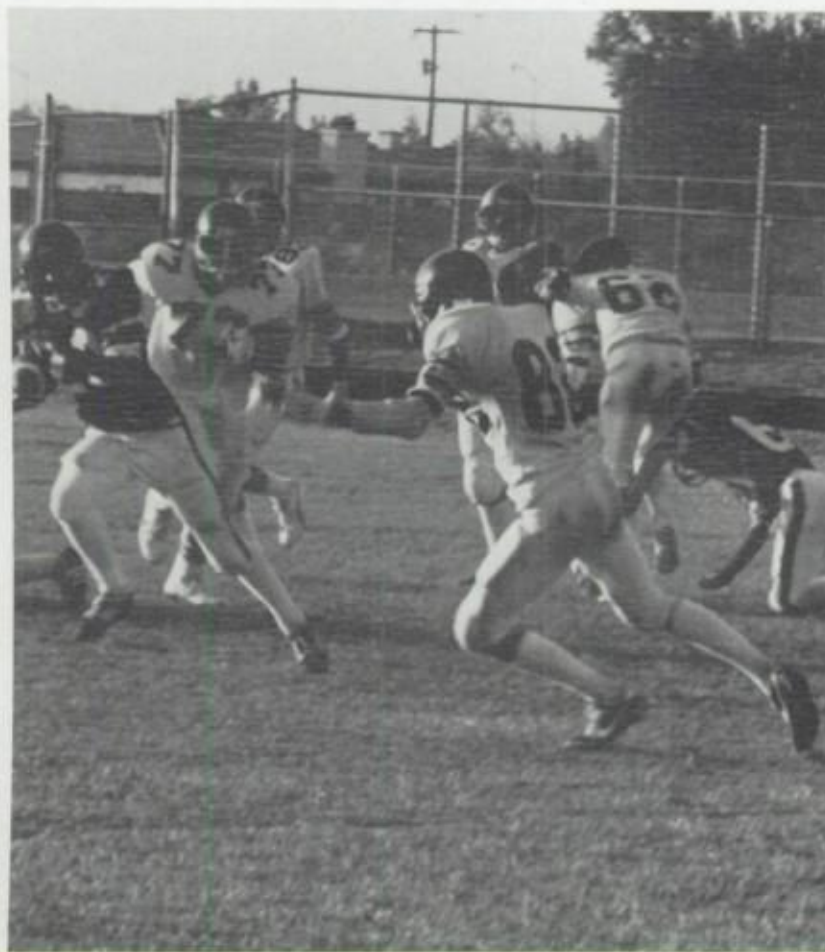

The team, overall, consisted of many outstanding players. Quarterback Todd Johnson exhibited much poise and did a fine job giving leadership to the team throughout the season. Linebacker Randy Reidhead was one of the basic elements to the defense, contributing his skill and charisma. The offensive line was held together by the talents of center Jay Nystrom who opened up holes by which runningback Fred Arona could pick up offensive yardage.

Tee'd Off

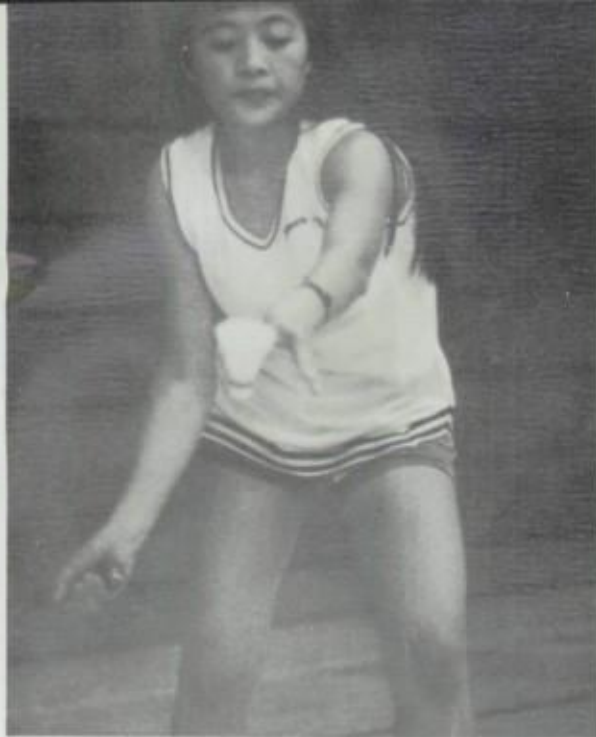

The Golf team started off up in the air. From the very start of the season, Coach Dave Sonius knew he would have an inexperienced team. Seven spots on the team were open. Many golfers tried out but the team was finally cut down to only twelve members. There were only three returning members, two of which were juniors.

One thing going for the team which no other team in the state had was Jon Baker, a two-time returning state champion. Jon barely missed the title this year by shooting a poor last round and just missing the championship by a few strokes.

Mike Dickerson also proved to be a strong power for the team. He was the only returning senior on the young team. Other standouts were juniors Paul Phoenix and returning member Mike Taylor.

Coming into the season, the golf team had the winningest record at school, behind no other sport. With ten members returning, next season should be golf's year.

When Birdies Fly

“When you’re out on the court, it’s just you against your opponent,” stated badminton coach Mrs. Shields. The Varsity and JV Badminton teams this year seemed to fair well against their opponents. With Badminton not getting as much support as some of the other “major” sports on campus, they put on a show of their own.

One of the teams most exciting and important games was against Dobson. When the birdies stopped flying, the points were counted and Mountain View had the edge five matches to four. The girls also defeated rival Westwood in a close match.

The number one seed on the varsity team was senior Lanae Saunders. Chris Stewart was a power for the JV team.

At the end of the season, the girls had posted a sixth place in divisionals.

What a Splash!

Along with swimming, girls' diving proved its talent with an awesome year. There were only six members on the team, but they proved they got what it takes to be on a MV varsity sport. The team was led by sophomore Barbara Abele, junior Wendy Priggy, and senior Camille Harris.

With the coaching of Sandy McCormick the diving team, along with the swimming team, went on to a record one loss season. "We had a good season, but just wait until next year. We'll be even better," stated Michelle Hebdon. Her predictions should hold true for next year with all but one diver returning.

Full of Power

Girls' swimming continued to carry on the winning tradition at Mountain View by diving into one of its most colorful seasons. Highlighting the season was again the close meet against Westwood. Always a powerful team, Westwood gave the girls' team a tough fight, but as the score usually shows, Mountain View came up on top. The team was led by Coach McCormick.

Some of the team's better members were sophomore Heather Haynes, her sister and junior Aimee Haynes, and Senior Shelley Cavoloski.

At the end of an outstanding season, the records showed only one loss, and a high placing in state.

Early Start Gives Edge

Changing boys' swimming and diving to fall instead of spring provided an excellent result. The swimming and diving team was undefeated, with a 6-0 record, and one forfeit against Yuma, who had no team. The greatest pleasure the team had was their victory against Westwood, beating them for the first time in four years, 64-63.

Having placed first and second all year, John Abele and Chad Bassett's outstanding diving helped edge the points higher throughout the season. Junior Casey Lee surprised the Toro team with his improved ability in diving.

Half of the swim team was composed of seniors who contributed much to most of the team scores. Some of the different competitions that were held during a meet were breast stroke, freestyle, backstroke, a relay and the very difficult butterfly. Captain of the team, Steve Shearin, led his team to becoming "The best team Mountain View has ever had," said Coach Wilson. Their winning season proved this was "The year of the Toro."

Dedication Pays Off

Girls' Cross Country, coached by Mary Lou Armenta, finished their season with a 10-4 record. Coach Armenta summed up the team as being "the most devoted and hardest working team" she's ever coached. Special recognition should go to Sheryl Brady who had her first experience in cross country this year. She ended up being the team's number one runner, placing first among the Toros in all fourteen meets. The highlight of the season for the team members was beating Westwood, on their home field, for the first time in six years.

"The greatest season ever" is how Coach Jackson summed up Boys' Cross Country. The team went undefeated, 14-0. They gained the titles of City Champs and Division Champs. After winning Divisionals the team went on to place third in state.

Senior Andy Johnson set a new school record for the three mile course and was designated, with sophomore Rusty Rosenberger, as being an All-State runner. With the varsity only consisting of three seniors, Coach Jackson predicts next year to be as good or better.

First In the League

Setting up a winning tradition, the Varsity Volleyball team started their season off with their win against Mesa, two sets to one. The Toros played seventeen games, winning twelve. Steve Schlick's outstanding coaching led his team to a first place tie in the league with both Yuma and Chandler. In the City, the Toros earned a 4 and 0 record having beaten Westwood and Dobson, and Mesa High twice. The Toros also performed remarkably by placing third in Central Divisionals.

With good technique and great concentration, Susan Redding prepares for the return.

Grimacing with effort, Junior Lori Pew shows her idea of what a serve should look like.

Lori Pew reaches to the top to tip the ball to a teammate for a set up.

Sophomore Shelley Greene shows much style and form as she delivers a Toro serve.

Andrea Passarella successfully returns the ball to the Mesa High opponents.

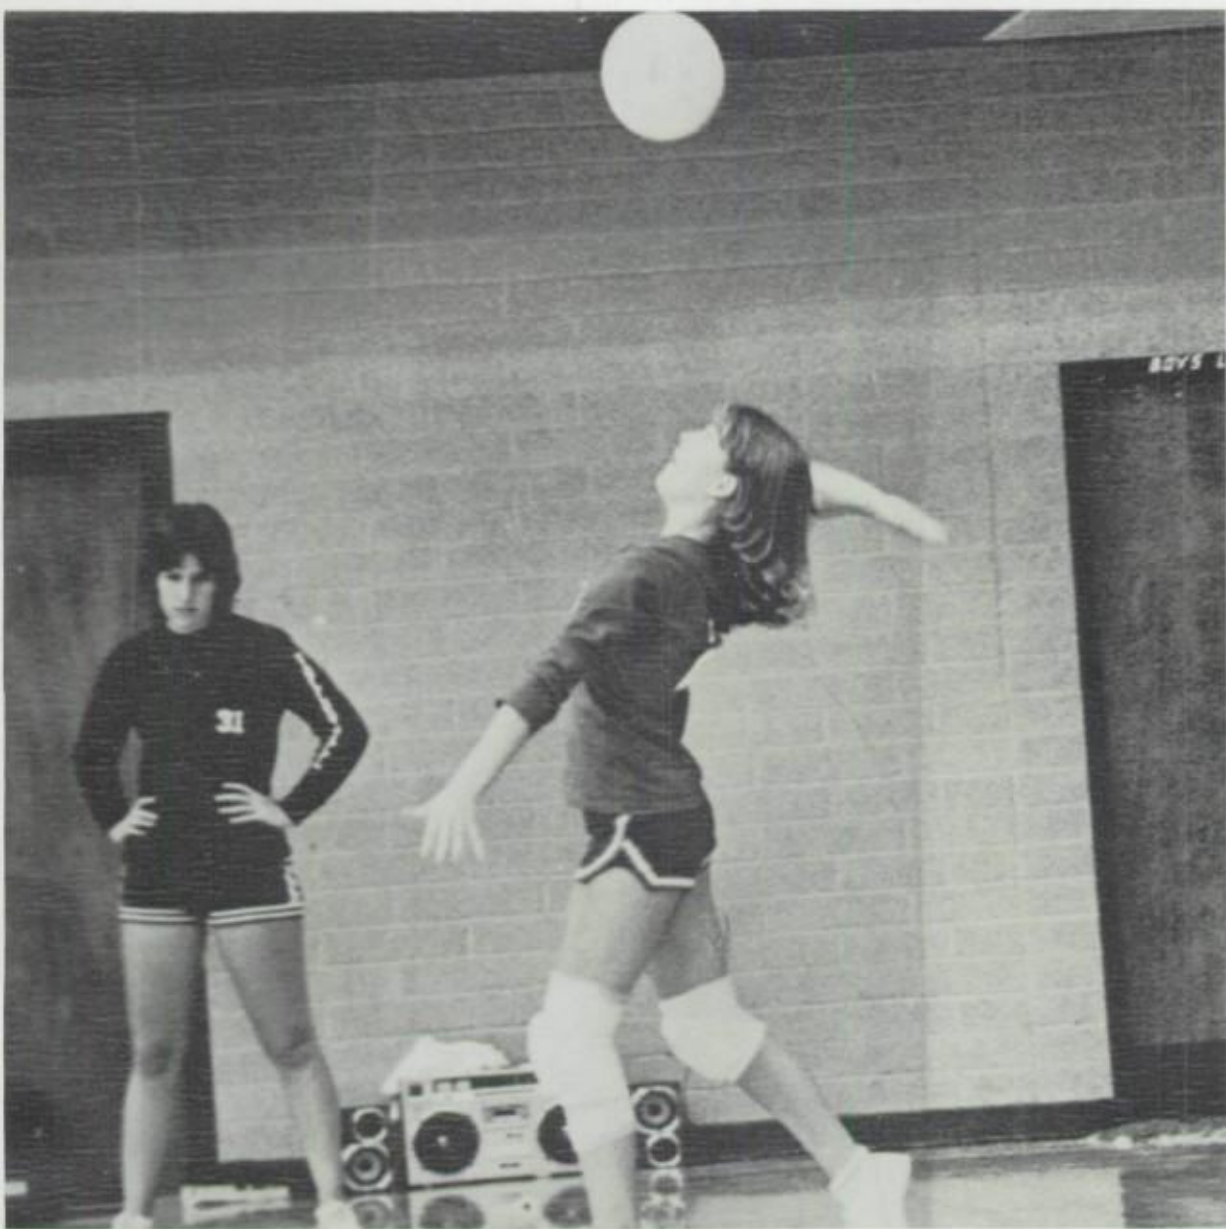

Sharon Schweppe shows "grace under pressure" as she gets under the ball for a set up.

Lisa Kaufman jumps out of the way of Paige Bassler to let her complete her shot.

Stepping forward to bump the ball, Paige Bassler helps the Toros move closer to another victory.

A Matter of Style

With volleyball, it's a matter of style. The Junior Varsity volleyball team seemed to have the style, talent, and ability.

After trailing their opponents Mesa High and Chandler in the first two games, their last efforts could not help. They took the two losses with a wounded pride, but then spirit endured. It gave them the power to get their confidence back and start winning. By the third game the Toros heated up a great deal with a lot of enthusiasm and eagerness. They started to move, spike, bump, and outmaneuver their opponents. Game after game, they showed form, grace, and agility to prove what the Toros were really made of. The Toros finished the season up with an outstanding record of 9-3.

Young Team Builds Future Hope

“We are a young team with nine underclassmen and three upperclassmen.

Learning the game, leadership, and attitude will be a major factor in becoming a solid team,” so stated Varsity Basketball Coach Dennis Pipes. At the beginning of the tryouts, the returning lettermen had to fight for their positions.

More than a couple returning seniors didn't make the team, and there were some who left the team even after the season had begun.

When asked to list some of the most valuable players, seniors Mike Squires, Craig Taylor, and Keith Moody were said to be leading the way.

The team lost some close games this season including by two to McClintock and by one to top ten ranked Marcos De Niza. One close game, vs. Chaparral, came out a win. Coach Pipes said that good defensive play led to the 42-38 win. He further stated that “all the players played with intensity and executed their skills well.”

The young team put together a fine season so far against ranked teams, but just be on the watch next year for the returning senior team.

Senior Mike Squires gets ready to take a pass from one of the other two seniors, Craig Taylor.

Brent Nichols is fouled on this play, but the ball goes in, thus creating a three point play.

J.J. Jackson and Frank Agostino fight intensely for an important rebound.

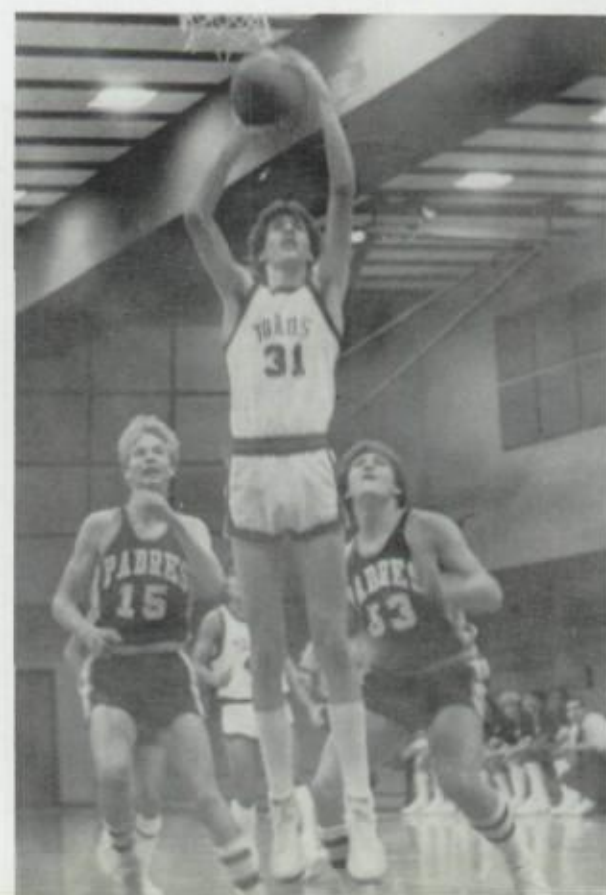

The only junior on the J.V. squad, Frank Agostino uses his height to score over the opponent.

Driving Potential

As usual the junior varsity basketball team had a number of players who had the potential to be outstanding varsity athletes for the next two years. After all the games, the biggest victory was over Marcos de Niza. After a slow start in their season, and in this game, the team was able to rally from twelve points behind and hold on to win. The victory started the team on their four-game winning streak. When asked about the qualities of his team, Coach Greg Sessions replied, "This was one of the most exciting sophomore teams we've had at Mountain View. Not only do these young men play an exciting brand of basketball, they also show great promise to make basketball here at Mountain View interesting for years to come."

Dedication to Win

It's 7:30 a.m. time to weigh in. You're told, with utmost confidence, that you will lose 2 lbs. before the match that night. You suit up in all the sweats you can handle and find time to run during breaks and release time. Even your stomach is aching and all you want to do is rest, but the thought of winning overcomes you and dedication sets in. Senior Eric Creel considered it a challenge to lose weight before a match. He stated, "It has to be done, no one likes to do it, but you don't want to let your teammates down."

7:30 p.m. the matches begin. Your stomach is churning like butter and you find it very difficult to stand still. When it's time for you to wrestle, you're called to the mat and you shake your opponent's hand. You have three periods to wrestle your opponent to a pin and all you think about are your moves. Tom Sharpy explained, "It's a combination of nervousness and excitement. It's more individualistic than football."

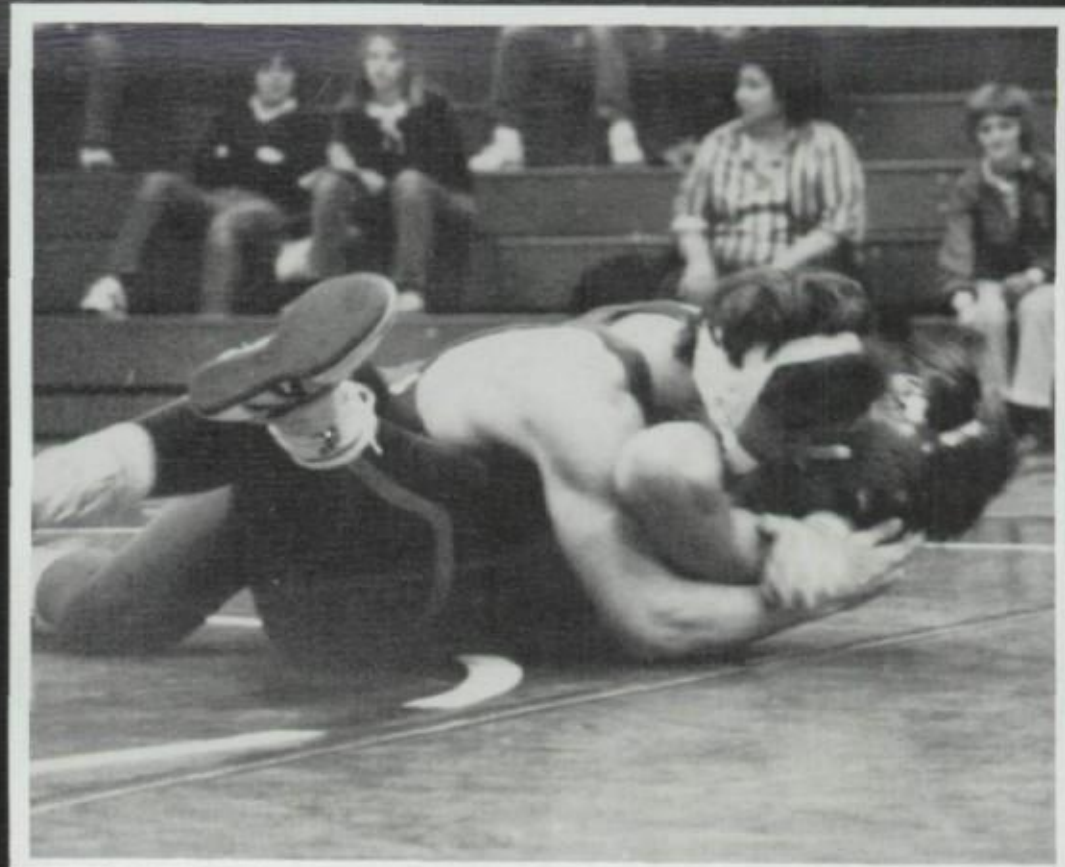

A feeling of dedication and power overwhelms you when you have the stability to defeat another opponent. Every wrestling year gets better and only those who contribute to the team can truly be called dedicated.

Making Things Happen

When determination and dedication are mixed together, you come up with a strong wrestling team. The JV team currently has won 23 games straight in the past three years. The outstanding wrestlers consist of undefeated juniors Ronnie Miller (157 pounds), Keith DesRosiers (169 pounds), Travis Ulmer (147 pounds), and undefeated sophomores

Tom Misch (107 pounds), Steve Long (132 pounds), and Richard Randall (140 pounds).

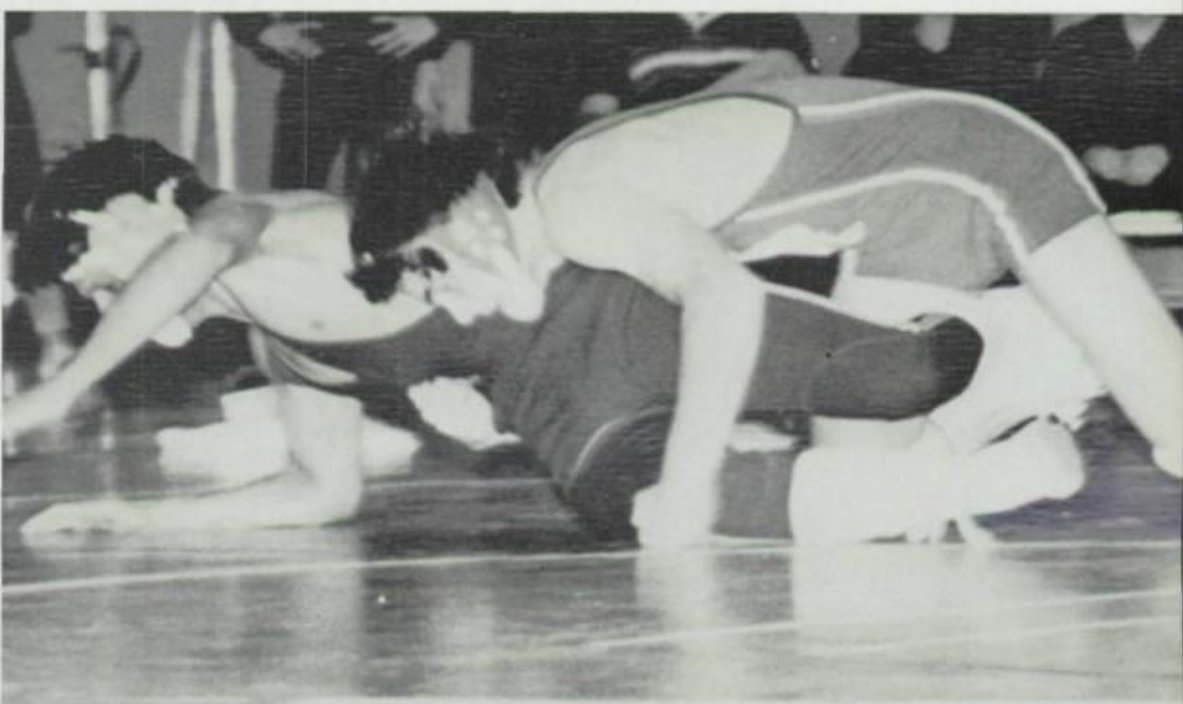

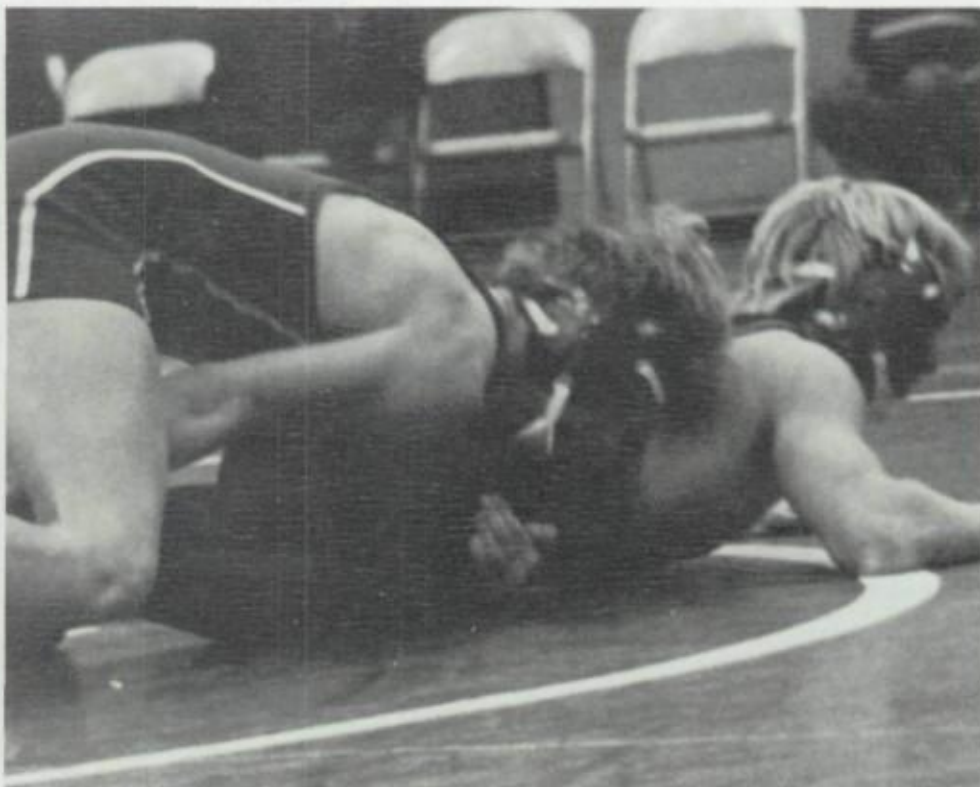

Working together not only as individuals but as a team as contributed greatly to the JV wrestlers. They showed spirit and pride in every move they made, not only with each other, but with their opponents.

'The Best Team Ever'

The soccer team entered into what would be a very tough season. The team consisted of many young athletes who possessed a high amount of talent.

Toro defense was webbed by two sophomore starters, Alex Simonovic and Todd Johnson, who both played the halfback position. Also returning were juniors John Passante, Ed Lochhead, and Matt Campbell. Seniors Robert Russell and Chuck Bassett provided the leadership needed to help the Toros collectively improve as a team.

At the halfway point in the season the Toros stood tall with a 4-3 record. Perhaps the biggest game played was that against Marcos de Niza. Having lost by one point with two seconds left in the game, this was the most heartbreaking of all contests and also the best game the team played.

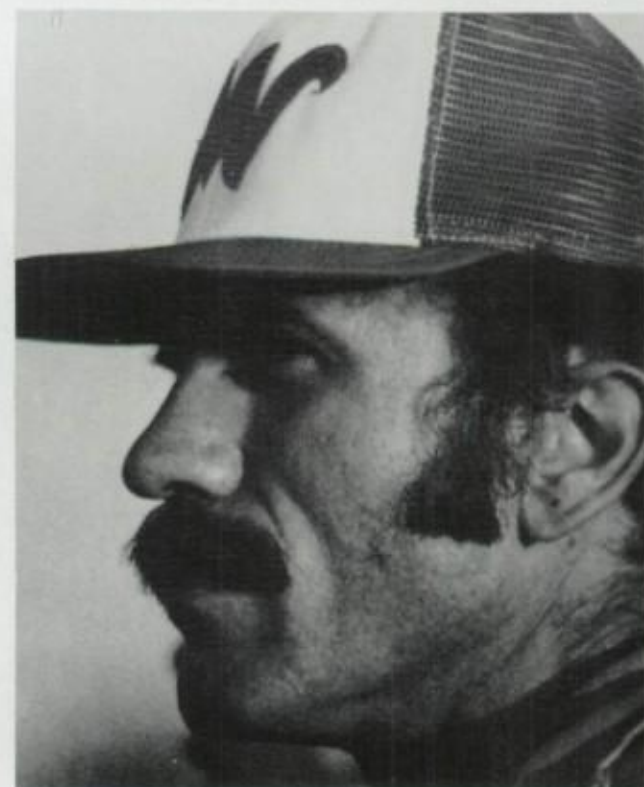

Coach Scafaria "firmly believes that this is the best team Mountain View has ever produced," and that "the soccer program has improved with each succeeding season." He also felt that the seniors made the season "truly a joy to coach" since they put forth such a great effort.

Ed Lockhead uses his head and a little more to get the ball upfield to the offensive unit.

Matt Campbell sneaks inside the opponent's defense to attempt a goal with a strike from his head.

Sophomore Todd Johnson gets set to pass the ball to a teammate on the sideline upfield.

Don Scafaria depicts a coach deep in thought over how well his team is following the game plan.

Alex Simonovic uses excellent dribbling technique to keep his opponent from obtaining the ball.

Matt Campbell forces the opponent's goalie to make a diving attempt for one of his shots.

Mike Hoyt goes over the top of a teammate to head the ball upfield where it belongs.

Top row: Coach Scafaria, Laurens Appel, Frank Branson, John Passante, Matt Campbell, Javier Amaya, Nick Bargas, Chuck Bassett, Ed Lochhead, Robert Russell, Mark Young; Statisticians Michelle Hagerty, Laurinda Kirsh, Karen Shue; Coach Anderson. Middle row: Managers Mike Bell, Roberto Rodriguez; Alex Simonovic, Darrell Krueger, Jeff Lloyd, Mike Hoyt, Jim Coleman. Sitting: Mike Schub, Eric Champion, John Ortiz, Jim Seiferth, Brett Campbell, Brian Nowak, Doug Gooch, Todd Johnson.

Frank Brandon and John Ortiz seem to have a difference in agreement about whose ball it is.

Softball Success

Softball is a challenging sport which takes much determination. The Varsity team seemed to have everything go just how they planned.

Pitcher Peggy West commented, "Pitching is really challenging because the team and the game depend on my accuracy." Ending the season with a 16-7 record, Coach Shill said, "It was the best season Mountain View has ever had. The girls were outstanding, and never let down all year." The team also had an 8-4 record in League A Central Division, putting them in second place.

Waiting for the pitch, Tina Moses opens her glove for a perfect target.

With a look of experience, Peggy West throws her best shots for the Toro team.

Senior Carol Zack watches the ball as it swings outside home plate.

Preparing to hit the ball, Brenda Cole concentrates on making a home run.

Laurie Lott squares around the plate as she prepares to "push bunt" the ball past the pitcher.

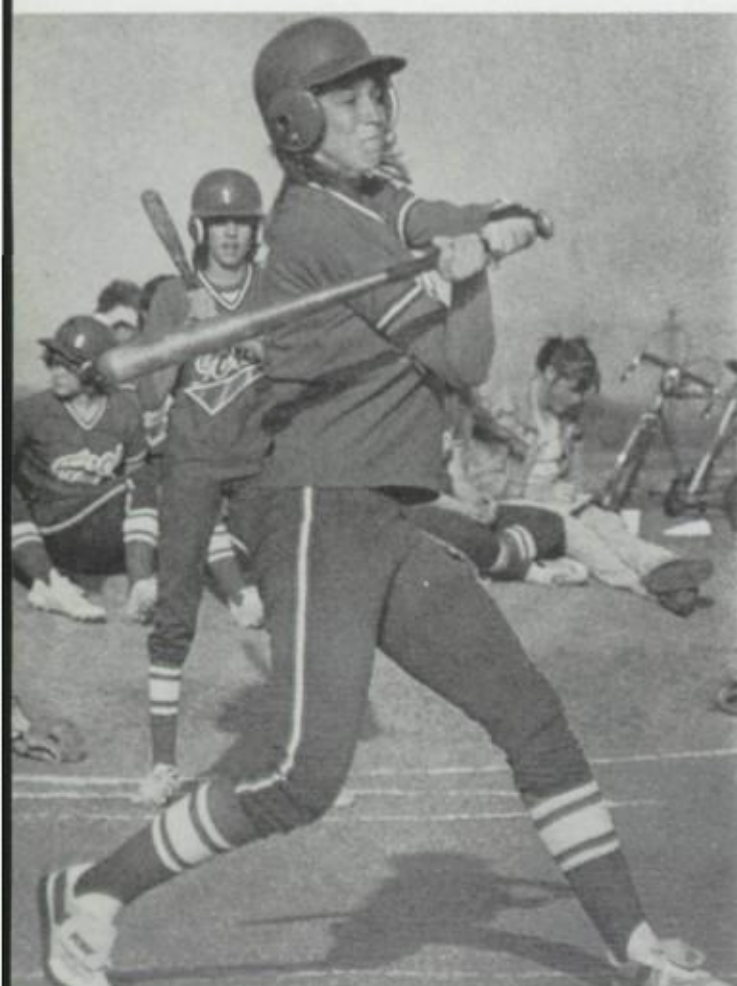

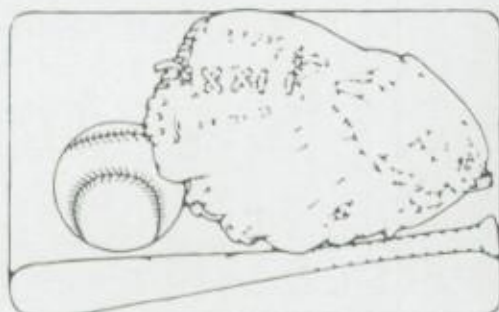

Bobbi Bruce takes a good cut, but unfortunately fouls the ball outside.

In a huddle, the Junior Varsity team learns a few helpful hints from Coach Fredericks.

Christine Frank shows much strength and determination to hit a home run.

With Toro determination, sophomore Cathy Higuera patiently waits for the incoming ball.

Billi Self shows a determined look as she patiently watches the incoming ball.

Ready to pick off the runner, Wendy White hovers over the first base plate.

Sophomore Diana Bosley anxiously waits to make another perfect play.

Swing Into Action

It's 3:30 p.m. and the Junior Varsity softball game is just beginning. Among the teammates, words of good luck are being exchanged.

The pitcher steps up on the mound for her warm-up pitches. The umpire starts the game, and the first of seven innings begin. The crowd begins to roar with support for their team. By the last of the seven innings the enthusiasm has built up, and the tense crowd awaits the final results. The Toros are victorious, giving the team an 11-5 record for the season.

Preparing her stance, Christine Frank turns her glove over to welcome the ball.

Practicing with much style and form Cathy Higuera warms up for the big game.

Showing form and grace, Fred Olson gives all he's got to get the ball over the net.

Top row: Brent Blough, Scott Davis, Bill Bedrava, Ron Black, Chris Walker, Fred Olson, Coach Brady. Bottom row: Mike Johnson, Jim Kobie, Andy Crimmins, Ken Dammen, Steve Lundblom, Mike Giese, Ken Caton, and Kent Saunders

A Smashing Success

The girls' tennis team had as much talent or more than it has had for more than four years and was coached under new authority. Janet Soule was really structured, in that she ran a tough workout and predicted a winning season. The talent in the squad ran with the doubles team, and with senior Bobbi Bruce, who plans to make the A.S.U. squad next year. Providing strong leadership, the seniors helped the team mature in needed areas.

Boys' tennis was also under some new management. The '83 season was Coach Brady's first time to coach tennis, and it proved successful. Jim Brady was highly impressed with the significant leadership provided by the seniors: Fred Olsen, Chris Walker, and Ken Kayton.

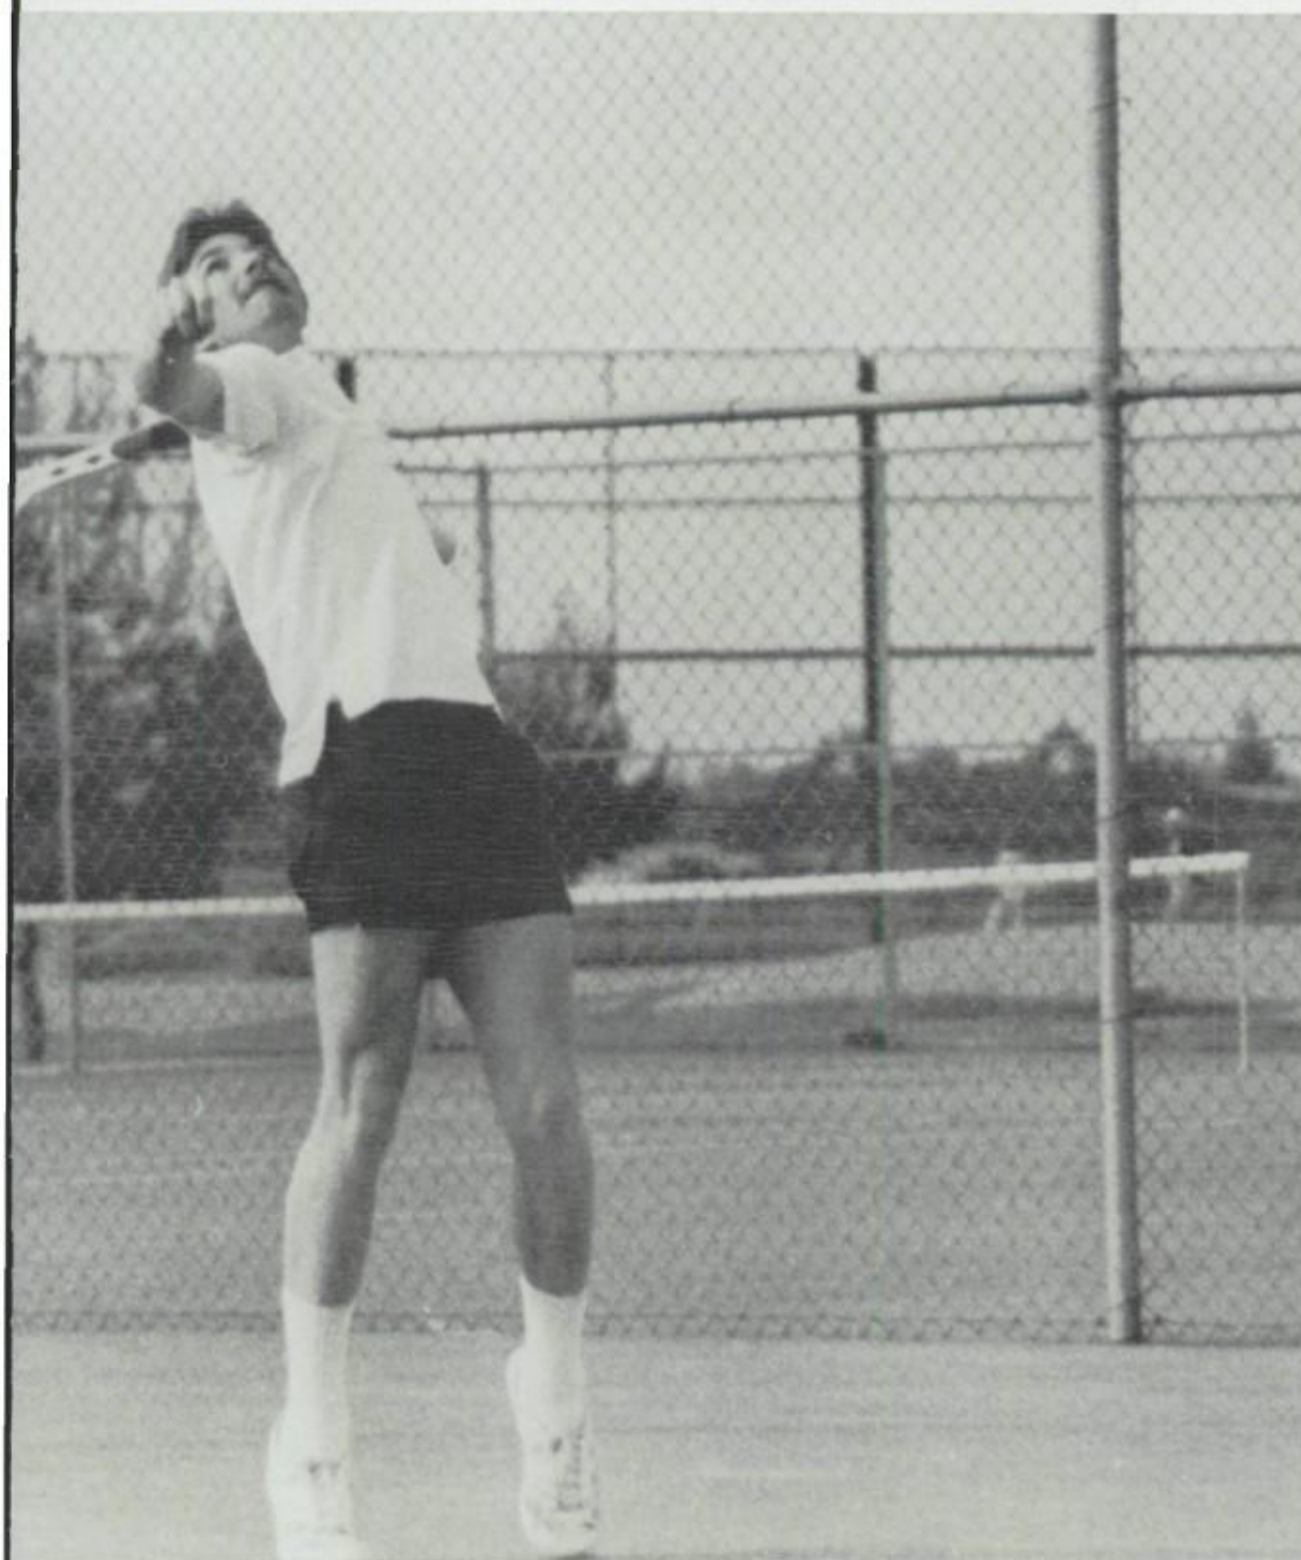

The number one singles player was sophomore Ron Black, who was also on the number one doubles team with Scott Davis. The Toros found the usual tough competition from Scottsdale and Saguaro.

Kim Jones hustles to the other end of the court to reach a difficult return by her opponent.

Andria Allgood demonstrates how to properly return a ball by using a forehand return.

Bobbie Bloom serves up something a little too hot for her opponent to handle.

Chris Walker, senior, keeps his eyes on the ball to make sure his serve goes in bounds.

Excited Toro Band members react with enthusiasm to another outstanding victory.

The pep club, sponsored by Mrs. Nelson, has another friendly gathering after school.

After limbering up, Dance Club member Janet Adams works on perfecting her splits.

In an officer's meeting, Mike Rosati and Betsy Anderson try to think of ways to run the OP-Shop.

Facial expression is extremely important as drama student Gina Shepherd displays.

Putting aside her Spanish, Leann Fedorick takes time out to write some notes.

Doing Our Best

With many music, ethnic, academic, and spirit clubs around school you knew your choice was going to be hard. Knowing that each club would take up a lot of time did not help matters, but you were ready for the challenge. Whether it was helping out in the bake sales, fund raisers, or pep assemblies you fit right in with the other members. Doing your best for the club and the school made this a great year to be a Toro.

Involved

An increased membership in the Mayor's Youth Committee subsequently increased the involvement of our school. From 20 members last year to 32 members this year the committee is growing rapidly. Mrs. Taylor, the school sponsor for the community-based organization felt that an increase would add to the amount of service the organization could do.

The major fundraiser for the committee was its annual Veteran's Day Carnival held at Mesa Centennial Hall, which turned out to be a huge success.

The Key To Success

In its second year of existence the Key Club made many improvements to our school. A couple of their monthly service projects were painting the school initials (M.V.T.) and Mountain View on the football press box, and assisting at the Mesa Junior Miss Pageant. At the pageant the club members helped the contestants backstage.

For a fundraiser, the club decided to show a movie after a home basketball game. The club's president Pat Tropio, and sponsor, Mr. Fredricks felt that a late movie at school was an alternative to the popular midnight movies shown at the local theaters.

Being a service-oriented group, the club is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Mesa which is part of an international organization. To become a member you must pay required fees to the Kiwanis Club and complete an application form.

The officers, including Pat Tropio, Maria Trujillo, Karen Woods, and Shelly Nicks, took part in the selection of the members.

Hit The Slopes

Before the ski trip you could always catch little pieces of conversation on the latest in ski wear, ski equipment, and the fastest runs.

When the Ski Club returned all you heard was how much fun the trip was and how low the temperature was. The skiers were willing to withstand the freezing cold, the sore muscles, and the frostbitten fingers and toes, just for a weekend on the slopes.

The Ski Club paid their own way up and back to Purgatory and organizational help came from sponsors Tom Guest, Burdell Moody, and Wayne Vala, and the club's officers: President Mike Rosati, Vice President Laurie Welch, and Secretary Betsy Anderson.

Purgatory — '83

A Helping Hand

Did you ever wonder where most of the help comes from when our different sports, clubs, and academics need money? Well, the answer is Booster Club.

Booster Club is a group of adults interested in helping our school in any way they can.

If a club wanted money for an activity, they would put in a written request. Then a board of sixteen votes on the request. Some of the money came from special fund raisers like the Toro-thon and some from in the football program.

Without the Booster Club's assistance, many groups would have been in financial trouble.

Let There Be Light

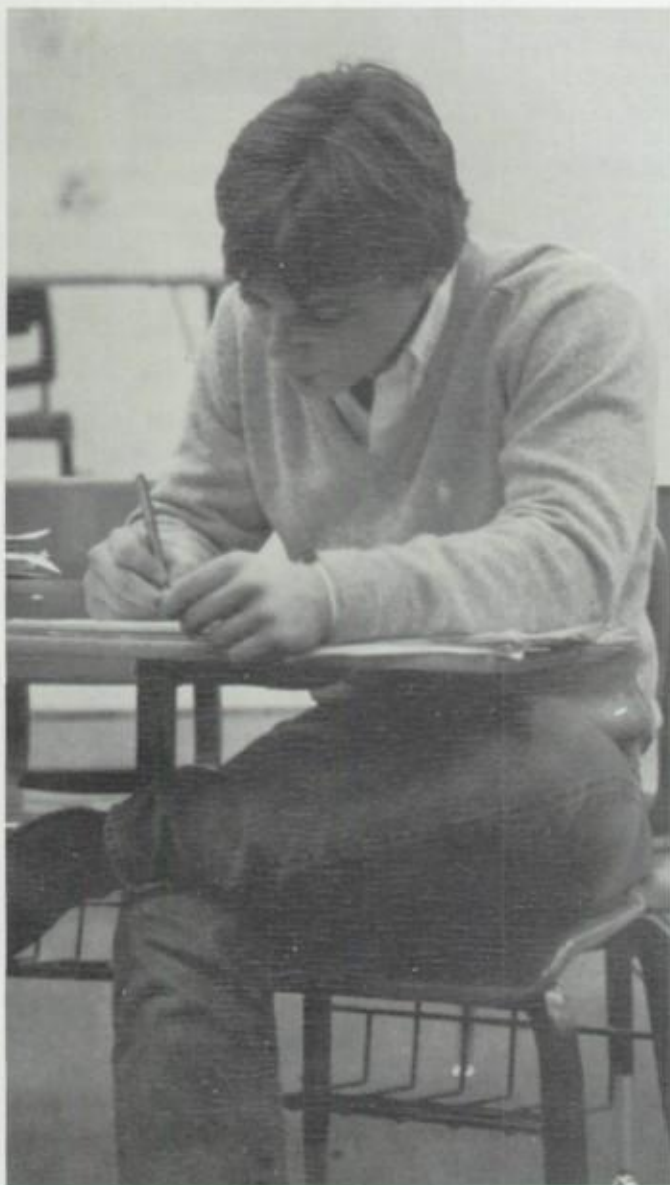

Stage Crew is the behind-the-scenes club that was the driving force involved in each concert, play, or assembly. They built the sets, and worked with the lights, and stage equipment. Drama Club is one of the clubs that used Stage Crew's abilities such as in their performances, You Can't Take It With You, and Brigadoon, which were both great successes.

Arguing Effectively

According to Debate team member Nathan Sheets "Debate is the most important thing at this school. We learn how to write research and speak. In debate you need to use these skills; it is the application of everything."

One of their strongest debates concerned the famous Lincoln-Douglas debate.

Every two months they received a new subject to research and speak on. This required many hours of hard work. Many of the members could be found in the library working on research and writing their speeches. In the end they emerged victorious and every member was proud of his work.

Mrs. Nadeau is surprised at what's going on across the room; Paul Schroeder pays no attention.

They were at every assembly, you never missed them. Sitting at the top of the bleachers, they were the ones with the most spirit. They were K.A.T.S. Club.

Organized and sponsored by Mr. Dick Anderson and Miss Kim Hall, they were in many activities on campus. They participated in the canned food drive and collected the most cans for one club.

The K.A.T.S. Club was one of largest clubs on campus, which was exceptionally great since it was their first year in existence.

Symphonic Orchestra, Toro Band Create Musical Environment

Two of the largest music groups in the state reside here: The Mountain View Symphonic Orchestra and The Toro Band.

Toro Band usually did most of its performing during football season, at the games, and at pep assemblies. Most of the class time went into preparing the half-time or pre-game shows. They were out at 7:00 a.m. weekdays.

Orchestra also practiced a lot but not on such a grand scale. They practiced 4th hour everyday and held section rehearsals at lunch and after school.

Many of the orchestra pieces were classical although they did have a Pops Concert in October.

Mr. Lloyd is known to have said, "We have the capability." Both orchestra and band proved that they do.

Toes Tapping

Dance looks simple on stage but the truth is it's really hard work.

This year's Dance Club exhibited dedication to their craft by giving terrific performances. But before these performances were days of practice, perfecting their routines. These were usually ballet, modern, tap, and jazz.

Each member helped make up the dances and the final performance showed the pride each felt.

Singing and Dancing

Made up of a select group of ladies, one of the best choirs was Premiere.

Their singing combined with dance steps was put together for terrific performances.

When asked the chorus's goals, member Sheri Heliquiest replied, "To achieve ultimate superiority toward the functioned and rather able and appendaged musical talents involved in the rather distraught and often misunderstood music systems of this fine nation which we are centered around."

Front presents, right shoulder, overhead butterflies, right shoulder, French fries. These words may sound foreign to you, but give a Flag Corps member a pole and she'll do wonders.

For one football game they would average twenty hours of practice, fourteen hours of practice on their own and the other six with the band. The time on their own was spent making up, practicing, and polishing up the routines.

Spanish Culture Influences Students

Designed to motivate and increase Hispanic cultural awareness, La Mecha has expanded the identities of many students.

Speakers came to promote educational and career involvement. La Mecha also had a Speaker's Bureau to explain their club's purpose and activities.

Focusing on the Spanish language and touching on its culture, the Spanish Club had a very productive year. Service projects, the main objective this year, and fund raisers kept the members of the club active.

On-The-Job

Cooperative Office Education (COE) is more than just a club. It is a future to some students. This program offers on the job training in business related careers.

Jenny Zollinger landed a job as a bank teller. Her interest in business and finance along with COE's help made this opportunity possible.

COE also steered other members to a career of their choices.

Paving a Road

Scholarship, leadership and service are the main purposes in National Honor Society. Many funds are raised for college scholarships, and last year two $250 college scholarships were given. This year the group tried to give more.

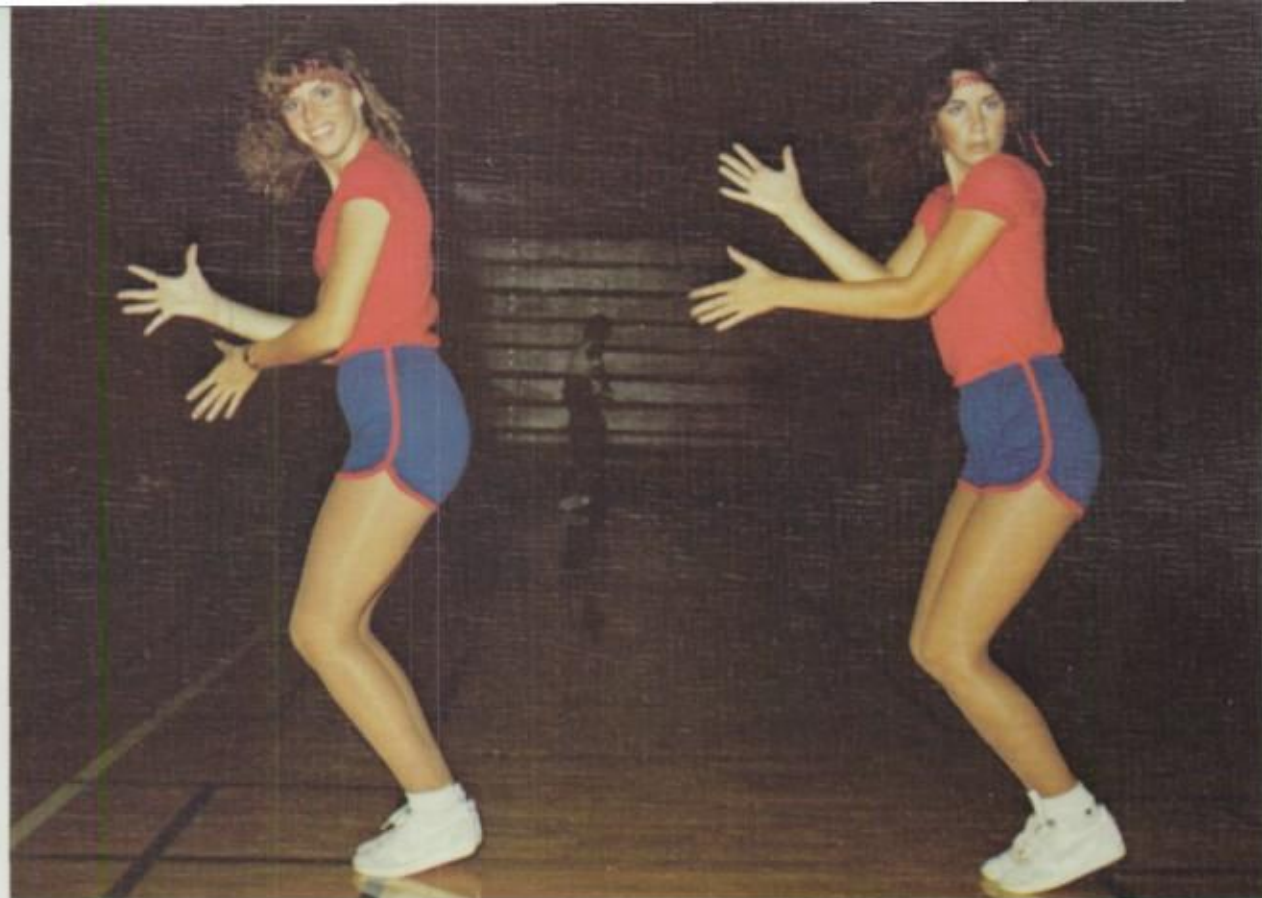

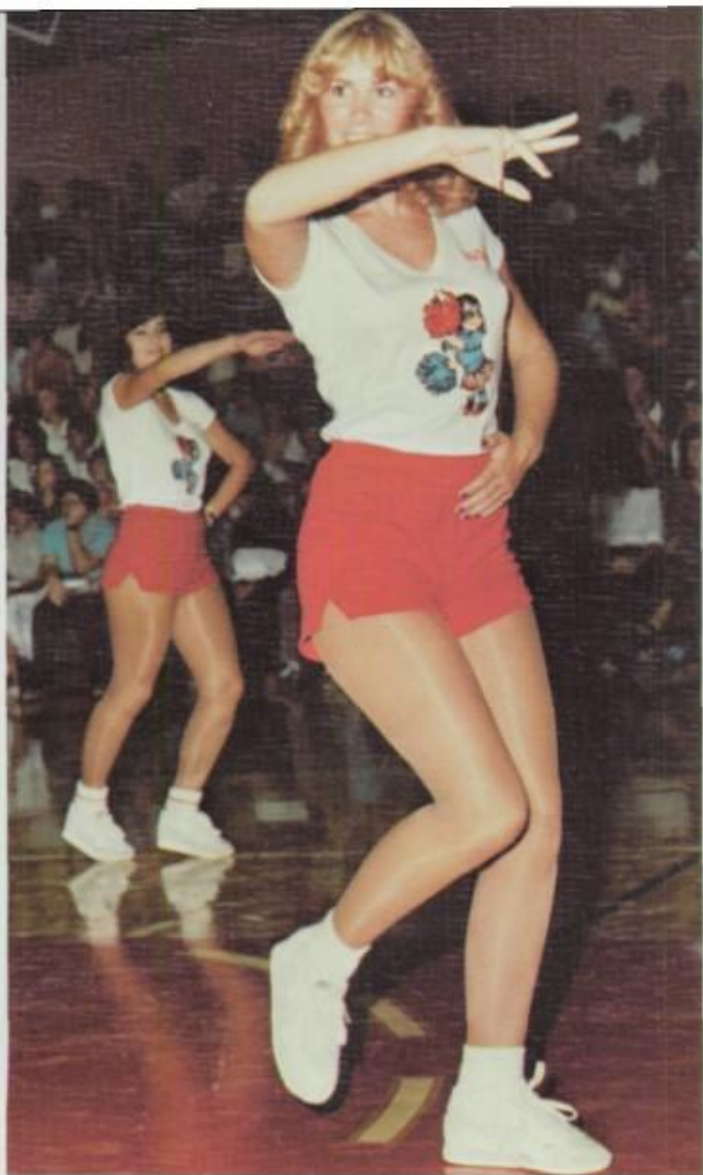

To be in National Honor Society, Seniors must obtain and hold a 1.5 grade point average, Juniors a 1.4, and Sophomores a 1.3.

These students have been involved in many service projects that included restoring the old Sirrine House which was restored for the town because it is a historic state landmark, having been here for such a long time.

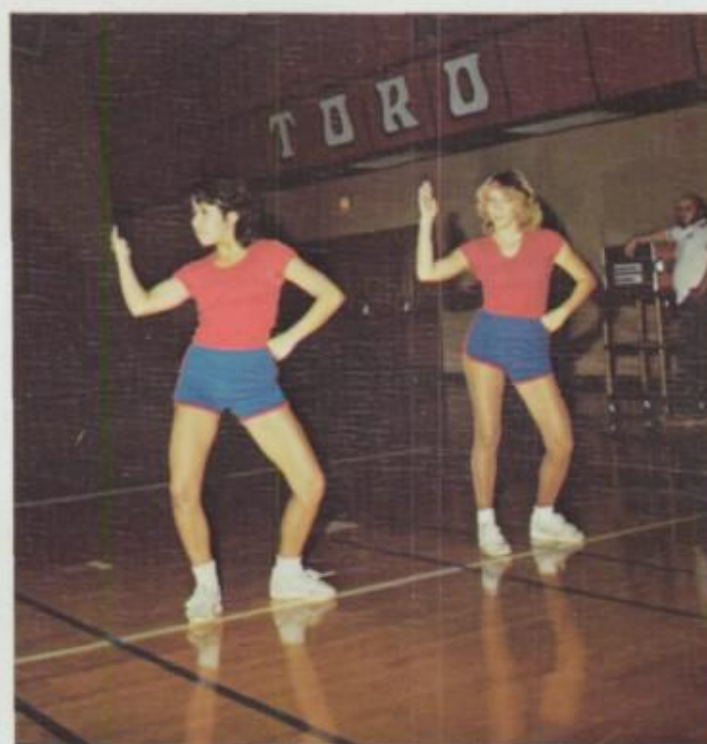

These students have shown a lot of hard work and dedication in every project they have been in.

Into Music

While most of us were sleeping, the Madrilenas were up at 6:00 a.m. practicing and creating new routines for Friday night games. By 7:00 they were out marching with the band for one hour.

In all total the Madrilenas practiced about fifteen hours a week to perfect and make their routines the best that they could.

Selling candy and selling spirit buttons were some of the fund raisers they held this year.

The Madrilenas put in many hours of hard work, making up and perfecting new routines, to complete a successful year.

To Strive To Excell

“W e’ve got spirit, yes we do, we got spirit, how ‘bout you?” That chant described the cheerleaders’ spirit and enthusiasm, on campus, at games, and at pep assemblies.

In July the Varsity Cheerleaders went to cheer camp for five days in Los Angeles. While there, they won the Spirit Stick, and had the chance to compete for the awards of excellence. Camille Harris was awarded All-American Cheerleader.

The J.V. Cheerleaders went to cheer camp in Prescott for five days, where they won the Grand Championship award out of forty other schools. They were also awarded for their perfection.

The last month of summer the Cheerleaders practiced from 6:00-8:00 a.m. every day to perfect their cheers.

Cheering involved a lot of personal time such as making treats for football players, and practicing before assemblies.

Fund raisers included selling candy, having a car wash, and giving out hot dogs and cokes, for which they received $200.

Learning Cultures

American Field Service offered students a chance to go visit other countries for a year to learn about different ways other people live.

Although none of the foreign exchange students came here through this service our foreign exchange students found instant friends in the club members.

Many students felt that this was a chance of a lifetime to experience different cultures, foods, and languages.

Learning Languages

Comment — Allez Vous? Sprechen Da Duetch? If you understand this you were obviously in the German or French Clubs. The clubs promoted a general awareness of the languages and customs of France and Germany.

Some of the fund raisers they had were selling candy, calendars and pastries. The money that the German club raised went towards a scholarship, and a night at a German restaurant. The money that the French club raised also went towards a scholarship and a meal at a French restaurant.

Under Pressure

Right now, you are holding in your hands, one of the most time consuming projects that takes place on our campus each year. There were times when six out of twenty-five staffers were rushing around madly to meet their deadlines which also included staying after school and often working during their lunch hour.

There was nothing more satisfying to the staffers than knowing there really was a finished product.

Be a Pepper!

Did you ever wonder who made up and organized those crazy class competitions at the assemblies? If you did, here's the answer: the Pep Club.

They not only worked hard at keeping the assemblies spirited, but one of the members was our wonderful Toro you saw at the football games. Spirit wasn't the only thing they worked for. They were always there to help other clubs with raising money. With all their contributions to the school, the Pep Club definitely deserves recognition for keeping Mountain View an exceptionally spirited school.

Fiddling

Encore Strings was a small group of orchestra students who acted as a public relations group. They played at trailer parks, hospitals, and nursing homes.

The auditions were held by Mr. Rader and only the best made the group. Near the end of the year they were changed into a chamber orchestra so they could perform at the Mountain States Music Festival.

Talented

Another band was Matador band. This band of forty members practiced second hour marching and their concert music. Their director, Mr. David Perry, is studying music at A.S.U. and is president of the Sun Devil Marching Band.

They had three concerts and performed pregame at the McClintock football game.

Their basic goal was to improve music skills and sharpen talent.

Susan Echols contemplates that last sharp that should have been a B natural.

Jazzed Up

Another music specialty group was Jazz Ensemble. A select group of brass players, they entertained at concerts, basketball games, and nursing homes.

The Ensemble's musical variety included jazz, dixieland, rock, and soul. The music appealed to young and old alike.

They traveled to elementary and junior high schools to entertain and encourage students to take up a musical instrument. This mini-tour encouraged many young people on to greater musical height. The members of Jazz enjoyed playing for the future Toros.

In Song

One of the other sophomore choirs was Las Mariposas. A small choir of twenty girls, they mainly worked on music from foreign countries.

Their director, Miss Sally Monk, helped mix these girls with the other choirs for their Christmas concert. Later in the year they attended the Mountain States Music Festival.

These girls demonstrated their versatile talent in successful performances.

With Pride

Las Cancionistas was a Junior-Senior choir taught by Mr. Dave Perry. The girls mostly worked on theory and perfecting their singing skills. Their songs ranged from pop to classical. One of their best performances was at their Christmas concert. Later in the year they participated at the Mountain States Music Festival.

These girls joined the rest of the Choral Department in the Christmas Assembly singing with the orchestra.

At the Top

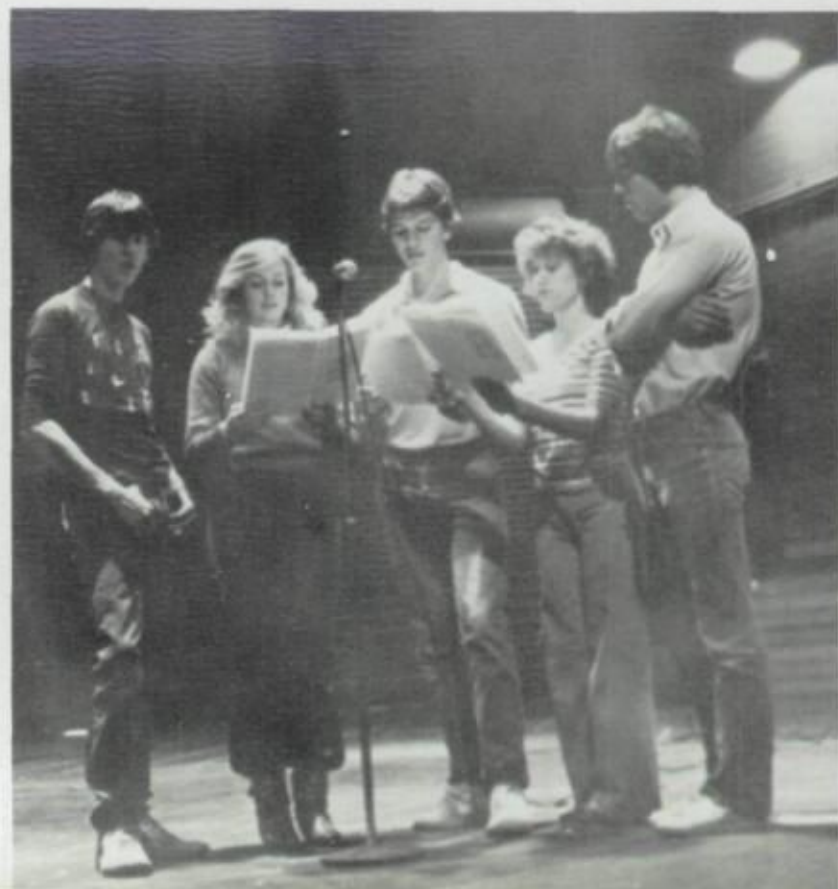

Encore was a select group of chorale choir members who performed separately and with the other choirs.

This group of fourteen members added a lot to the music department as a public relations and specialty group. They performed at elementary and junior high schools, nursing homes, and trailer parks, and encouraged kids to get involved in their music program.

Vienna or Bust!

One of the groups we were very proud of was Chorale. This choir of forty members was invited to Vienna to attend the International Youth and Music Festival during July. They needed to raise two thousand dollars per person.

To reach this goal they put together a brochure advertising the choir for businesses that needed talent for television and radio commercials, performing at business conventions, civic clubs, etc. They also put together a coupon booklet of the different community businesses. This helped to advertise the businesses as well as raise money for the choir.

Bettering Tomorrow

One of the largest clubs on campus was the Future Farmers of America (F.F.A.). The F.F.A. was a national youth organization of, by, and for students enrolled in vocational agriculture. Their primary aim was to encourage agriculture, citizenship, cooperation, and leadership. They encouraged all of these things through hands-on experience. The F.F.A. chapter at Mt. View was one of many thousands of F.F.A. chapters across the U.S.

Theorists

Can you imagine anything more exciting than mixing chemicals and waiting to see the results?

Science Club, led by their fearless leader Mr. Tom Atkins, probed the world of science to find out just what would happen. These students enjoyed learning about the world around them and other worlds that might be out in space. They also went on field trips.

Learning and Earning

The purpose of V.I.C.A. (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America) was to assist students in establishing realistic vocational goals. Both classroom study and on-the-job training are received. The members attended classes part of the day and were employed the other part of the day. The students were paid at the same rate as any new employee in that same business. Students had to average at least fifteen hours per week while on the job.

Voicing Opinions

Homeroom Council was a service-oriented group who successfully sponsored community activities such as a can food drive and a blood drive. Homeroom Council was also an outlet for the student body to convey their suggestions through the representatives. To organize their funds they amended the constitution to include a homeroom council treasurer. They sponsored a dance to raise money for their annual scholarship, which was awarded to an outstanding senior. Sponsor Russ McBride, Student Body Vice Pres. Bob Pothier, and Speakers of House Karrin Kunasek and Camille Harris provided leadership.

Running With Spirit

After its second year of existence, the Track Club was successful in achieving a greater amount of spirit for the girls' track team. One of the club's goals was raising money for "Camp Happy," a summer track camp. To raise money for this club, the club had bake sales and participated in the Toro-a-thon.

The officers of the club included President Maria Trujillo, Vice President Gigi Brandon, Treasurer Kristin Howard, and Secretary Amanda York. The advisor was Coach Armenta. She gave the club a lot of initiative and helped give the team inspiration and spirit.

Kelly Chapman concentrates deeply on her running in order to pace herself for the two mile.

Dale Cody and Dorinda Pattea help in planning the next project for the Indian club.

Lee Quotskuyva and Tami Manuel laugh at a joke while discussing ideas in a meeting of Indian Club.

Crystal Barehand finds out how much Indian Fry Bread she should make.

A Proud Heritage

The Indian club was a unique club whose members took a true pride in their heritage. Their pride was the reason for this club. One of this club's projects was raising money for scholarships which were given to four members of the club, to help them go to Washington D.C. with the Close Up program. One of their fundraisers was selling Indian Fry bread.

Another project of the club was having an exchange program with students from other schools.

The officers of the club were President Tami Manuel, Vice President Lee Quotskuyva, Treasurer/Secretary Crystal Barehand, and Historian Anna Quotskuyva.

Snapshot

One of the most active clubs on campus was Click Club. As the new photography teacher and Click Club advisor, Mrs. Jeanne Zimmerman worked with these talented students on many fund raisers and other activities, including a flower sale, taking pictures at the Christmas Dance, and for the school play You Can't Take it With You.

Photography is an expensive hobby which takes a lot of patience and time, but these students seemed to love it!

Even though these Click Club members love taking pictures, they also love posing for them too!

Read All About It!

Extra! Extra! This year's newspaper came from a very involved staff. The first order of business was to improve on last year's paper. They changed the layout, nameplate, and the Christmas insert was printed in green ink. They also change positions at semester in order to let the staff have a chance at other sections.

Outside of class they tried to develop new techniques to improve the newspaper by attending a workshop at A.S.U. and Publications Workshop over the summer.

Reporter, Michelle Fleming, was caught trying to sneak a bite of her cookie.

Editors Kim Mattingly and Marsha Leonard are busily working on their feature page.

Chris Ambri, reporter, anxiously types up his story so it will be ready for deadline.

Bev Evans screams in pain while Victor Hurrier whips her on Punk Day.

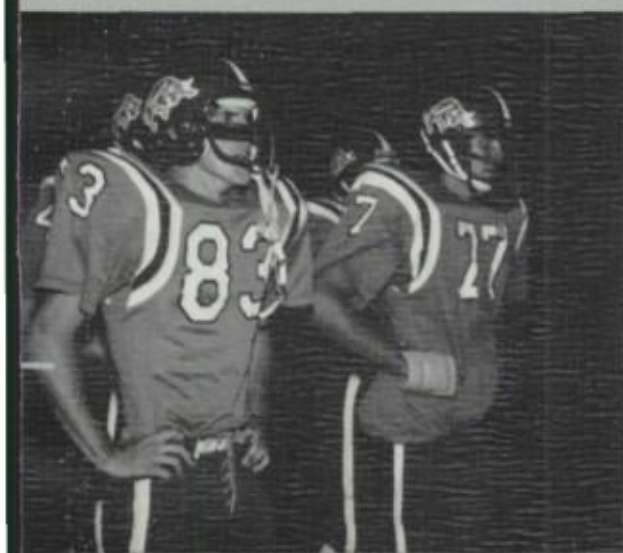

GiGi Gonzales and Grant Boland observe other Toros during fifth hour lunch.

The excited crowd flashes the Toro sign after a great play.

Susan Johnson enjoys her performances as a Madrilena during her senior year.

David Bryant and Keith Moody support the team while on the sidelines.

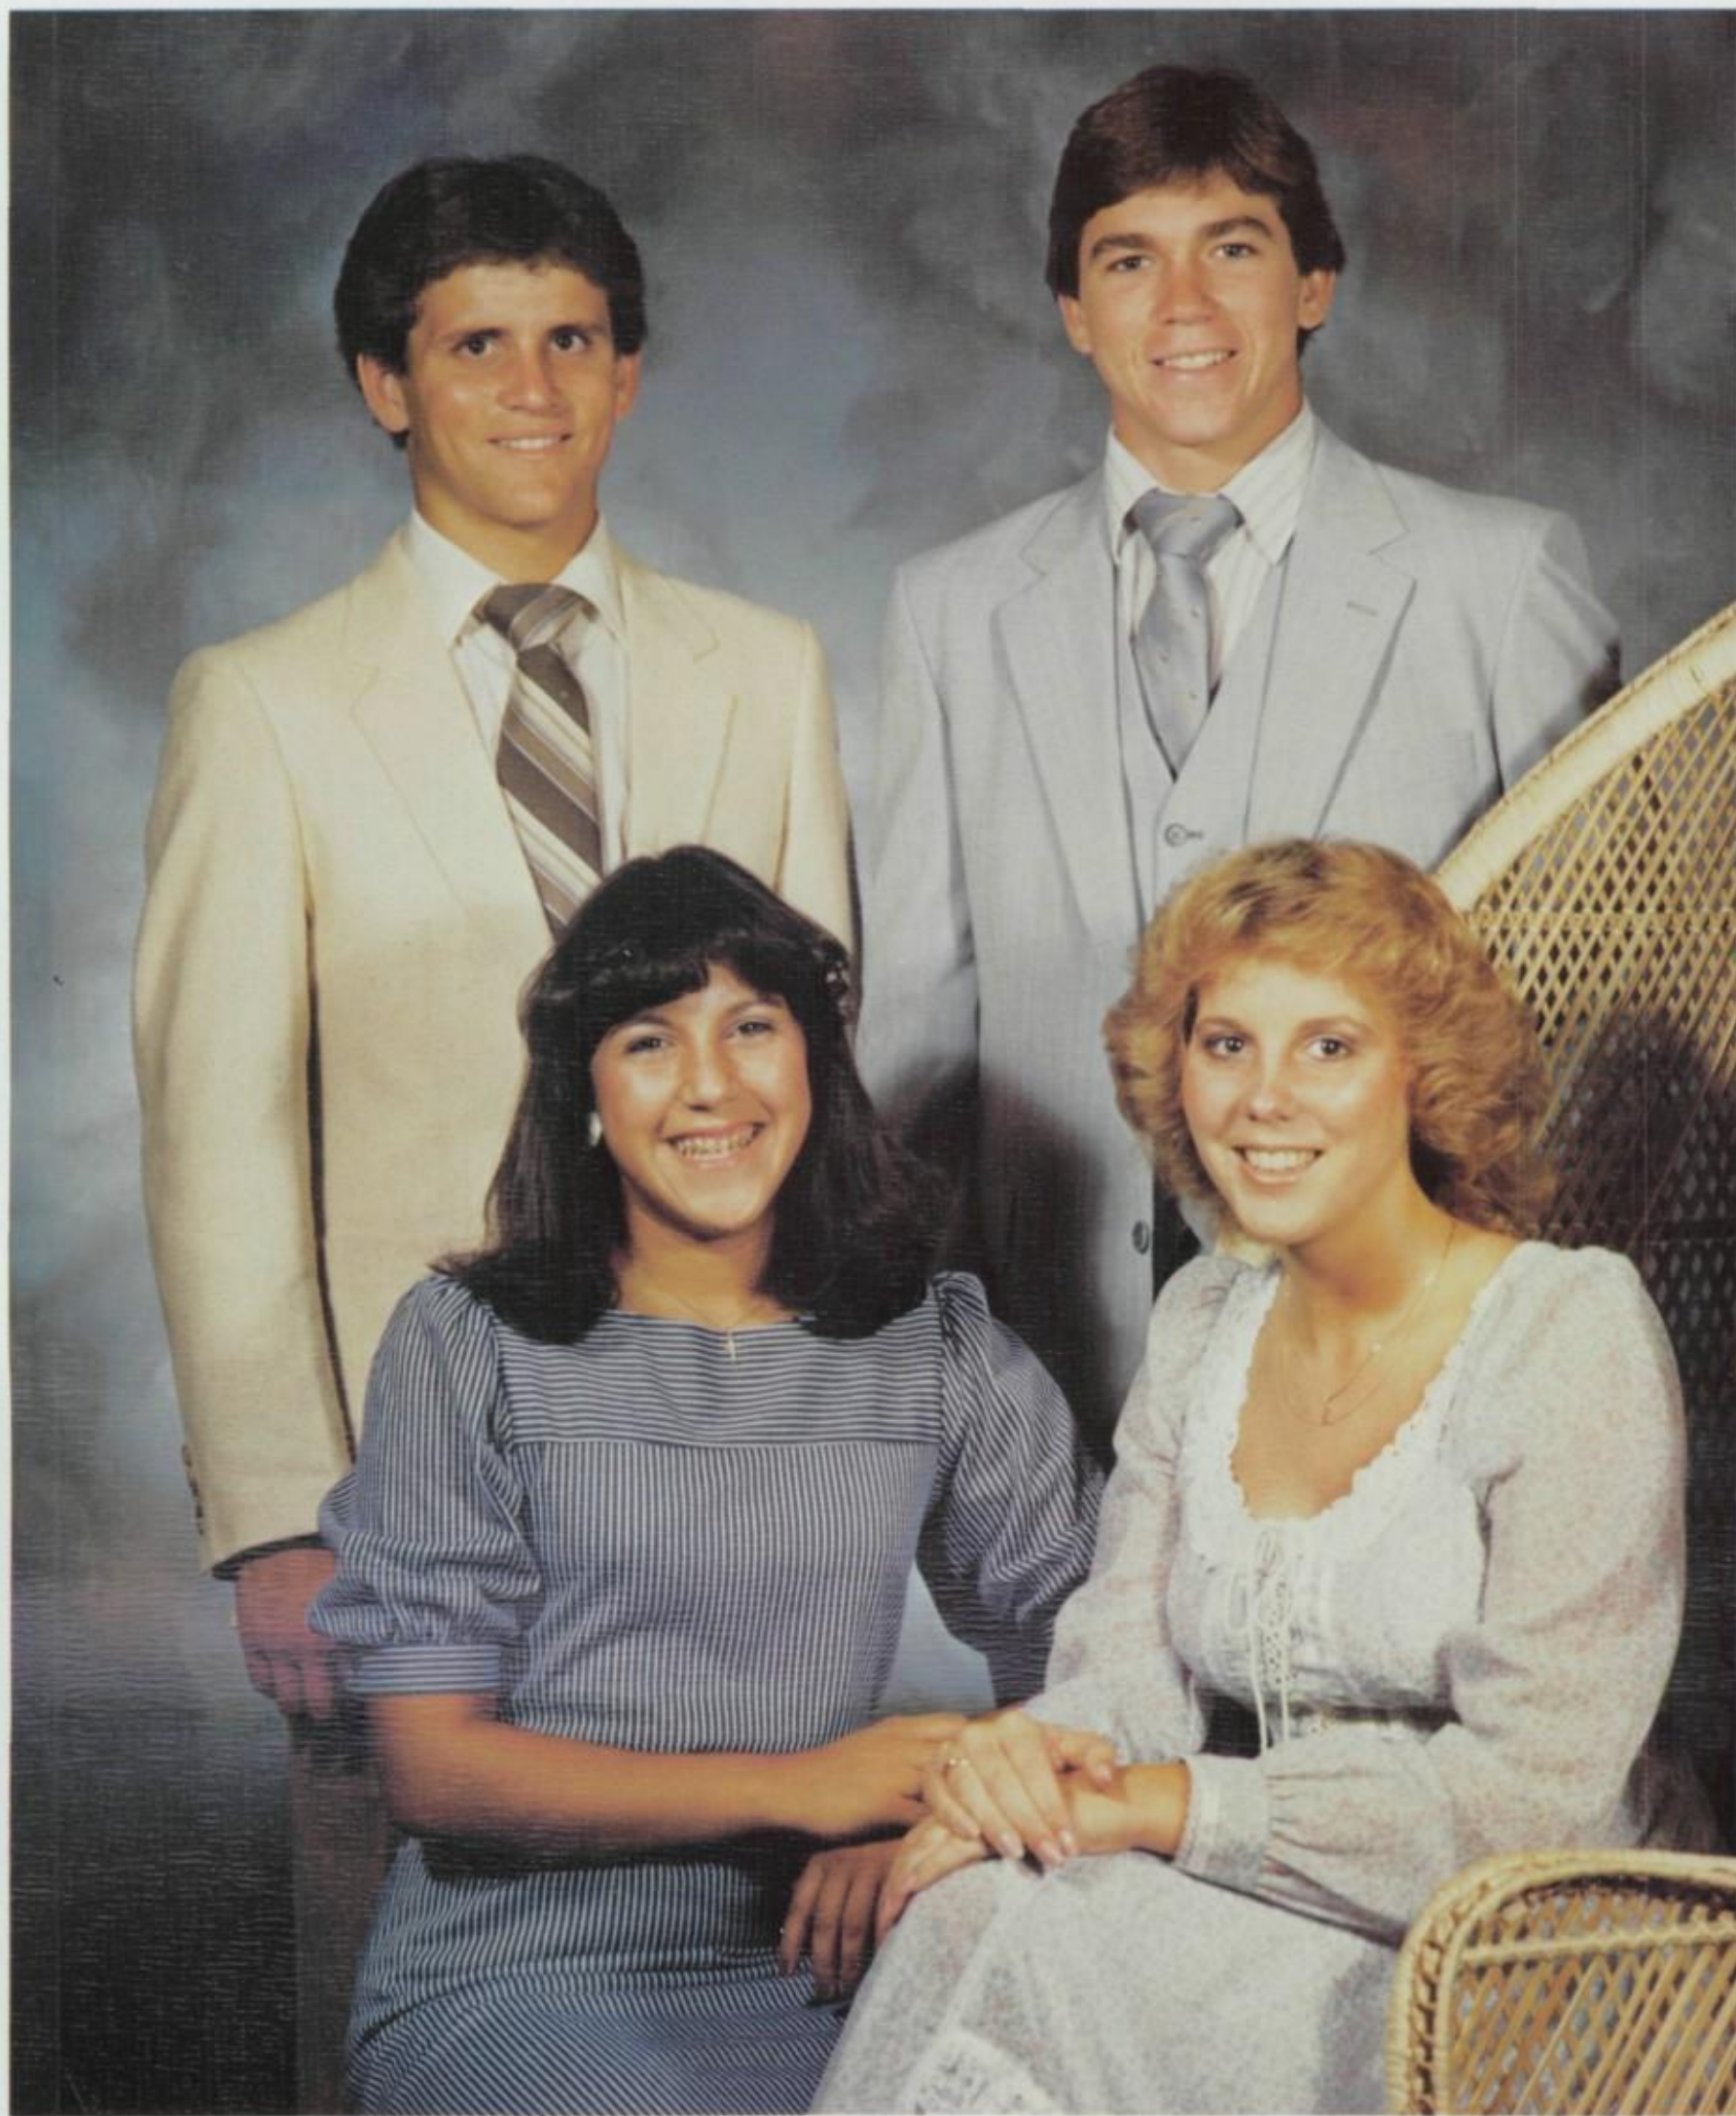

Charlie Beck, Mark Hazlett, Billy Cariveau, and Jino Micheletti display a few of the newest fads in clothing.

Fitting Right In

A school is no better than the people who go there. At MTV we don't claim to be the best in everything but the people here make you look forward to going to class. From the office personnel to the aides, our school has a certain warmth to make you feel right in with everyone else. Seeing the smiling faces on campus really cheered you up when you were down. You knew that the school itself was only a building and that it was the people who created the warmth generated.

The people of Mesa have displayed a strong commitment to education since the founding of the town.

One hundred years ago, in 1882, the community built its first permanent schoolhouse, on the corner of Center St. and Second Ave. As part of the U.S. Bicentennial, Mesa students built a replica of the Little Adobe Schoolhouse, located at First and Macdonald Streets.

There are 49 schools in MPS — 32 elementaries, 8 junior highs, 4 senior high, 1 vocational technical center and 4 special schools. Two elementary schools, now under construction, should be open in the fall of 1983. Enrollment in the 200-square-mile district is expected to exceed the 41,000 mark in the 1982-83 school year.

Standards are high, for we are always involved in the pursuit of excellence in educational programs, support services and business practices. Citizens who care about education, a top-notch staff and exceptional students make Mesa one of the finest school districts in the nation.

In between conferencing with students, Mr. Dale Charles "kicks back" and takes a break.

Mr. James Curlett takes time out of his busy schedule to listen, with intent, to the opinion of a student.

Ernie Hawkins points out his favorite type of shoes and reminds Arlene Kivett what he wants for Christmas.

Mr. Richard Anderson tries to explain to an irate mother about the new attendance policy.

"What next?" asks Ernie Hawkins as he finishes up with another truancy note after doing many of them.

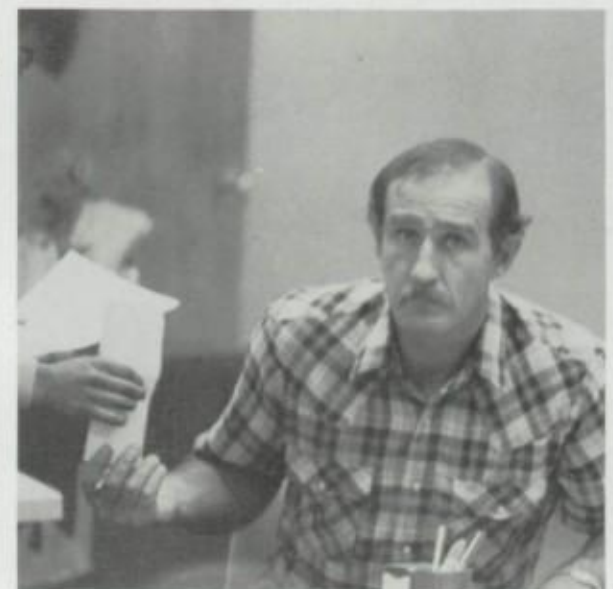

Lookin' Good at the Top

This year was a very busy one for our administration. It started off with registration being overly crowded due to the increase of students. The student body increased from 2182 to 2275 since last year. Since there were the same amount of administrators, they had to work doubly hard to keep up with the increased student body.

Mr. Dale Charles planned, administered and supervised all students' and teachers' scheduling, grade reporting and data. Mr. Ernie Hawkins supervised all the school's athletic and intramural sports programs. Mr. Dick Anderson administered and supervised the student activities program. Mr. James Curlett developed, coordinated and evaluated the schools total instructional program and interfaced between faculty, student government and Parent Advisory Committee. As principal, he also administered the Board of Education policies.

Arlene Kivett demonstrates, with some help from Mr. Richard Anderson, what will happen to you if you ditch class.

Principal James Curlett is reprimanded by Mrs. Dona Ortlund for not cleaning up his desk like a good boy.

Mrs. Jeanene Carey shows Mr. Dale Charles just what will happen if he doesn't complete his work.

While standing in the hall, Mr. James Curlett and Mr. Ernie Hawkins discuss who has bus duty next week.

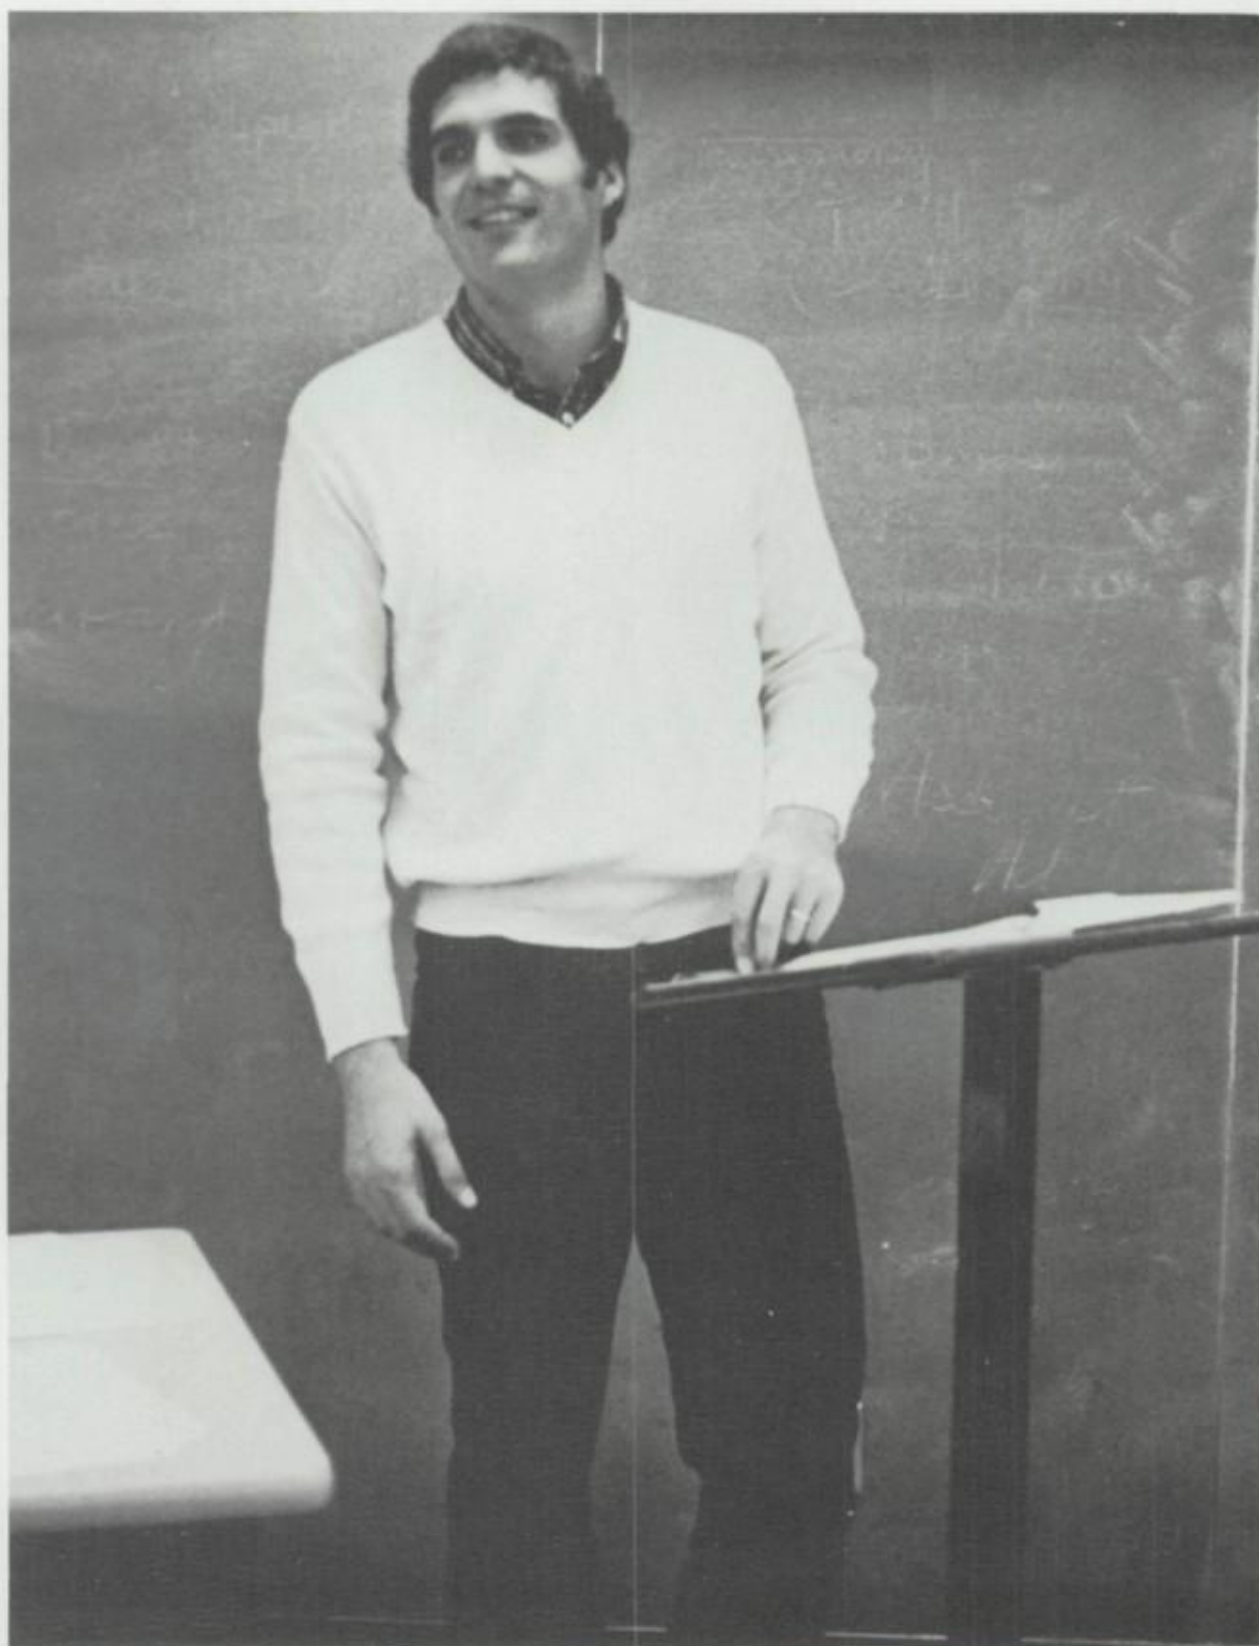

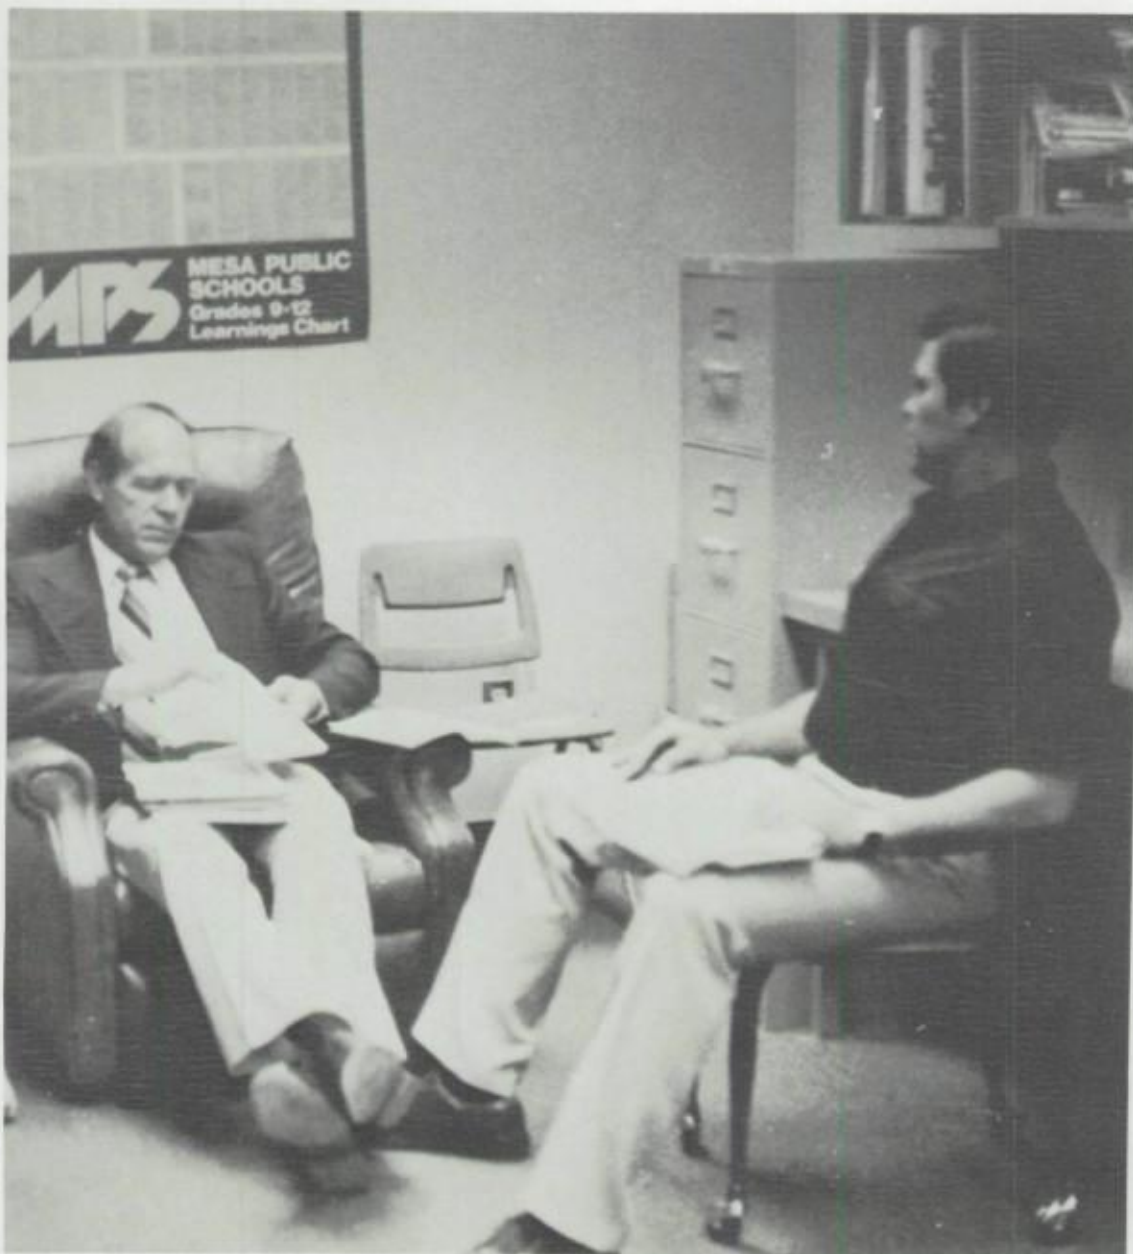

Mr. Ken Brackney shows Doug Herron some helpful hints on how to draw a good design for drafting.

Mrs. Debbie Hale exclaims, "It's stuck" as she tries to put a spoon through her pants during the class competition.

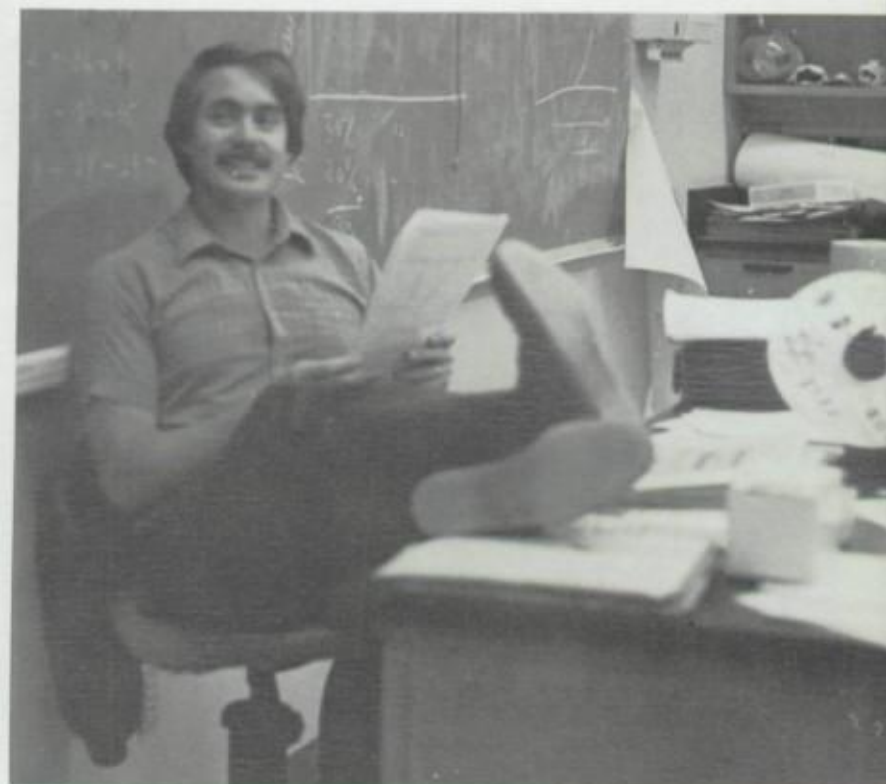

"Grody to the max!" exclaims Vickie Keast as Mr. Russ McBride wraps Agnus, the friendly snake, around her neck.

Coaches Jesse Parker and John Kleiner discuss the upcoming football victory while grading papers.

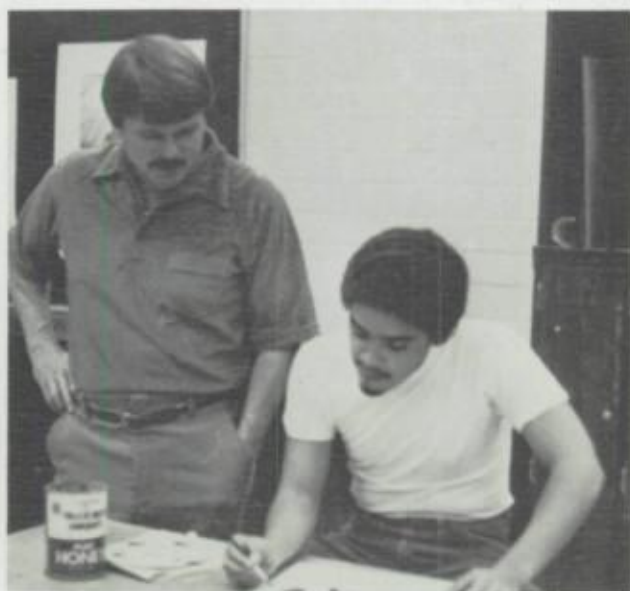

Mr. Ron Adams decides to kick back and relax while grading papers between classes.

After trying to explain a chemistry problem to the class, Mr. Thom Dunn asks for help from above.

Before a big concert, Mr. Joe Lloyd and John Ross practice a trumpet duet.

Mr. Burdell Moody gives Jesse Miranda some good advice on his art work during class.

Trying New Techniques

Many teachers tried various different techniques to make the classes more exciting. In Algebra II, Mr. Lax compared the math problems to football plays, so that the students could comprehend the problems on a more personal level. While in Free Enterprise, Mr. Dodez had his students run their own stock market so that they could have firsthand experience with today's economy.

These two examples were just a few of the many tactics that made it more exciting and inviting to learn.

Part of the training the tutors go through is a trust walk; it enables them to have trust in people.

Special Ed. teacher Mrs. Vaine discusses with tutor Sharon O'Brien her tutoring assignment.

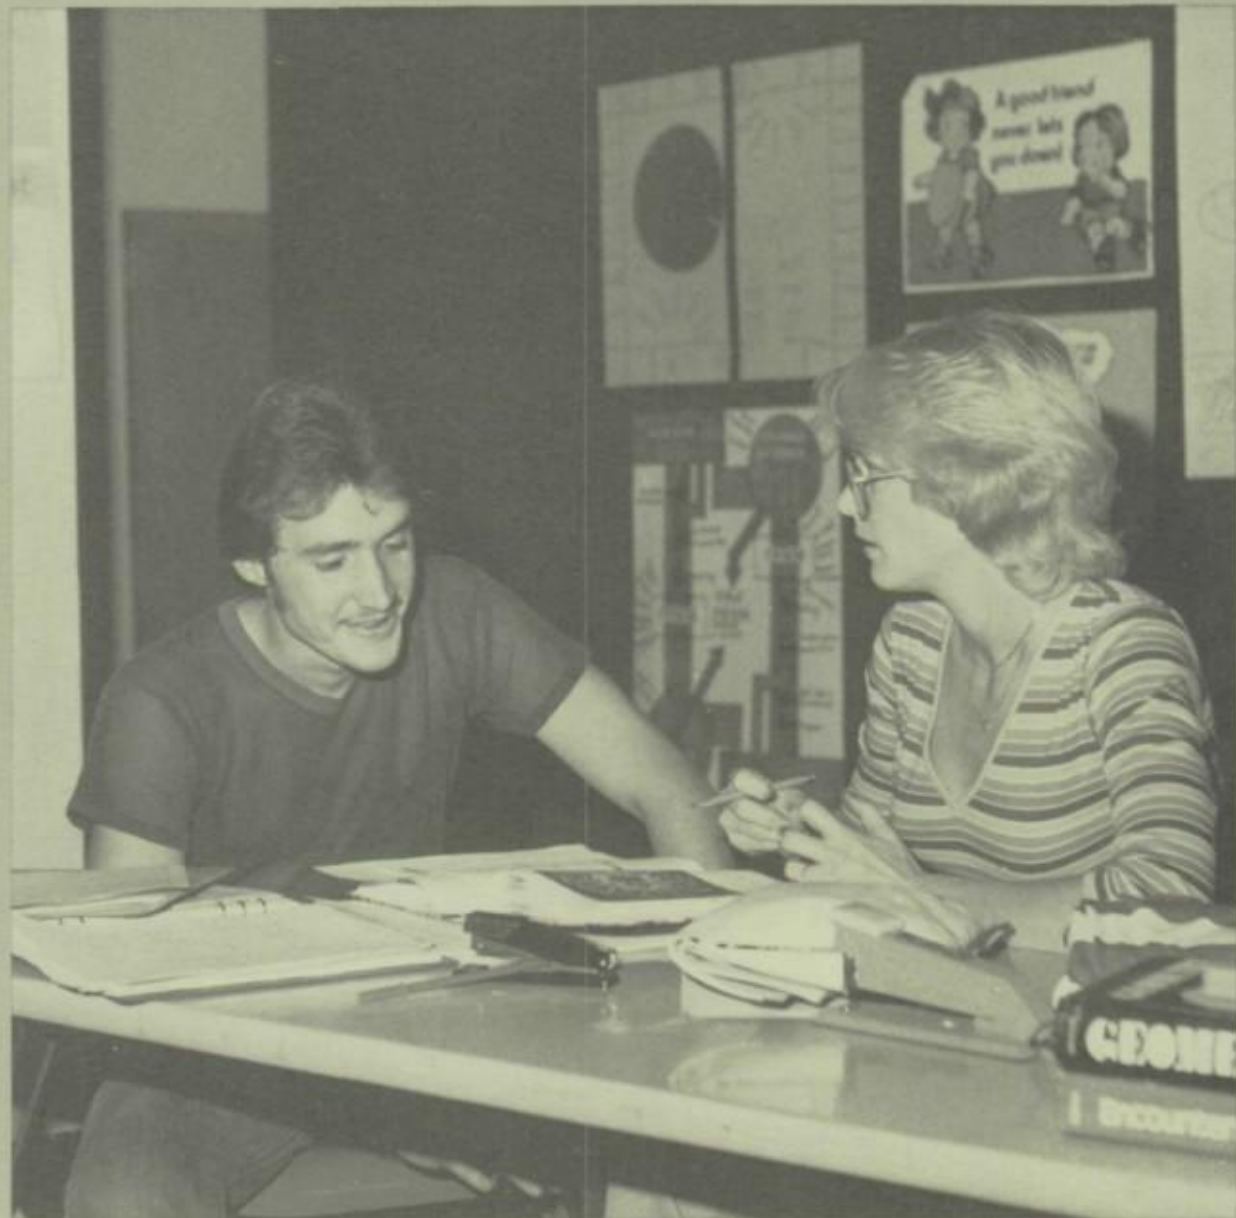

Tutor Sherri Huff stands back as her client Delana Murrell proudly displays the correct answer.

Tutor instructor Mrs. Combes demonstrates good studying techniques to tutor Rick Lizdas.

Lending A Hand

The tutoring program has earned national recognition for being an outstanding organization. They have been featured on "Hour Magazine" and "30 Minutes" and in Life Magazine. The tutors have been speakers at the Arizona Learning Disability Conference for teachers and parents, where tutors Dave Wentworth, Susan Edgerton and client Steve Warhurst talked about the program and their experiences in it. To qualify as a peer tutor, the prospective applicant must meet a few requirements. A 2.0 or B grade average is a must, in addition to being interviewed, having your attendance record evaluated, and having the sponsor talk to your teachers and counselor about your attitude, classroom abilities and peer relationships. Last year 81% of the clients passed their class.

Enhancing Futures

The foreign exchange program expanded tremendously. Students came to us from seven different countries — Australia, Austria, Sweden, Denmark, Mexico, Holland, and West Germany — and each was unique in his own way. Coming here was a big change. The “foreigners” adjusted quickly by making new friends and experiencing firsthand the American educational system and lifestyle.

Many of the students enrolled in the student council program. The exchange of ideas expressed by them on school projects and their involvement was very beneficial to our student body. This interaction also provided ideas for the newcomers to take back with them to their own countries.

Students from our school were also involved in the foreign exchange program and journeyed to places like South Africa, New Zealand, and India. No matter who the students were or what countries they came from, everyone agreed that being in a foreign exchange program was not just a learning experience, but an adventure they would never forget.

Senior Nathan Sheets has chosen to visit India for his travels abroad as a foreign exchange student.

Leaders of Tomorrow

Building for the future, the leaders of tomorrow achieved high honors during the school year. In addition to those pictured, other honors went to Jon Blaine, Allison Dillon, and Paul Williams as National Merit Commended students. Kim Demke, Julie Call, Lynn Wagner, and Monica Young were proclaimed All-American Gymnasts. Heidi Hage earned the title of International Twirler of the Year and was the overall Arizona State Champion in the 16 and over category. Andy Johnson and Rusty Rosenburger were members of the All-State Cross Country team. Kim Sickmiller, Keith Moody, and Dean Clouse were named to the All-State Football team. Marc Hudson made the All-Arizona Honor Band four years in a row. Also in that band were JoEllen Turley, Linda Collum, Shelly Hartley, Jack Archer, Bonnie Pinkerton, and John Rost. An Air Force ROTC scholarship worth at least $10,000 went to Will Travers. The Hugh O'Brien Youth Leadership award went to Heather Haynes. Other honors were too numerous to mention, but they included at least one-million dollars of scholarships earned by our students.

Nathan Sheets, Pat Tropio, and Bruce Higginson were chosen for Arizona Boys State. Not shown: Robert Russell.

Mrs. Pam Prater and Westwood's Mrs. Peterson look over the schedule during a lull in the crowd.

Candy Lawson, an Op Shop guide, fills out a form for Mesa Youth theater.

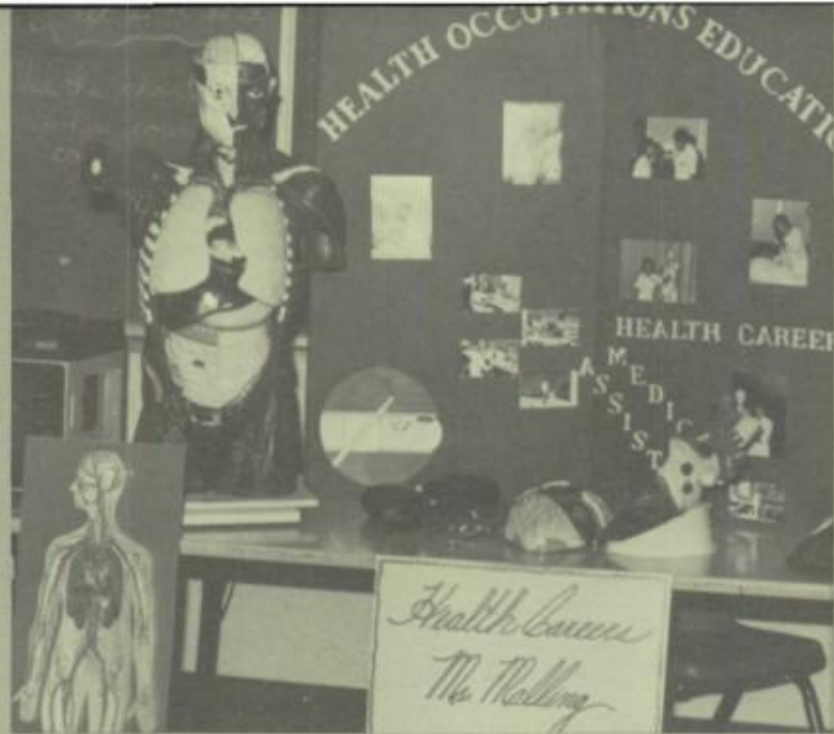

An Evening of Opportunity

Three thousand people converged in the Media Center on February 9 from 7:00-10:00 to have the rare opportunity to see and participate in the 2nd annual Op Shop. Our own Mr. Bob Miller was in charge of setting up the floor plan and seeing that OP Shop ran smoothly on its only night.

Represented at this outstanding event were thirty-nine colleges and universities. The armed services were represented along with the ROTC and the academies. There was a variety of technical and specialty schools ranging from electronics to cosmetology. Besides educational services there were many businesses and industries to aid students in understanding their careers. The municipal agencies were represented by the Mesa Fire Department, Mesa Parks and Recreation and the Mesa Police Department. Information about apprenticeship programs in carpentry, masonry, and electronics was available. The Department of Economic Security and the Mesa Youth Placement Service were also represented. In all, there were 119 presentations.

The Health Career exhibit had a very interesting visual display that attracted many people.

Paul Phoenix helps during Op Shop by making a map on the locations of the exhibits.

Events

John Rhodes, after 30 years in the House of Representatives, retired in 1982. Newcomer John McCain, a POW for seven years, took his place in the House for District 1.

Since the Great Depression, unemployment hit a record high of 10.8 percent in 1982. Over 12 million people were out of work and 6.5 million had to settle for working part time.

John Hinkley, Jr. was found not guilty by reason of insanity by a federal jury on June 21, 1982, for the attempted assassination of President Ronald Reagan. This decision caused many states to re-evaluate the guilty by reason of insanity defense.

William Arthur Phillip Louis, heir to the British throne, arrived in July to the delight of his parents, Charles and Diana, and the world. Observed one relative, "I've spoken with Charles, and he's absolutely over the moon."

Seven deaths resulting from cyanide-laced Tylenol capsules caused the whole nation to re-evaluate policies concerning the packaging of over-the-counter drugs.

The Reagan administration ran up the highest federal budget deficit in U.S.

history, and yet the dollar strengthened against currencies around the world. Business failures averaged some 500 a week, even after interest rates began to decline.

On December second, doctors at the University of Utah Medical Center successfully implanted a permanent artificial heart in a 61-year-old retired dentist. The seven-and-a-half hour operation was the first of its kind. The patient, Barney C. Clark, had been near death from heart failure when the operation began, but after the heart was implanted he appeared to be on the path of recovery.

The crash of Air Florida's Flight 90 last November into the ice clogged Potomac River in Washington D.C., caught the horrified attention of the whole country. Seventy-four people on the plane died, but while television and still cameras recorded the desperate scene, five others were rescued by electrifying acts of bravery.

Finally, almost a decade after the Vietnam War had ended, a block granite monument was unveiled in Washington, D.C., to honor the 57,939 men and women lost in Vietnam.

Civil war among more than 25 roving militias had been the background violence of Lebanese life for seven years. But nothing prepared beleaguered civilians for the bloody summer of 1982. In early June, after months of secret planning, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin ordered a force of 60,000 men and 50C tanks to roll north into Lebanon. By midsummer, Defense Minister Ariel Sharon could celebrate his first anniversary in that powerful job at the gates of Beirut. Israeli bombers flew overhead, pummeling residential areas inhabited by PLO guerrillas. In exchange for Israeli vows to stay out of Muslim west Beirut, U.S. envoy Philip Habib negotiated the dispersal of Yasser Arafat's battered PLO fighters to havens in other Arab lands. But upon the assassination of Lebanese President-elect Bashir Gemayel in mid-September, Israeli troops promptly occupied west Beirut "to prevent the danger of violence, bloodshed and anarchy," in the words of a statement by the Begin cabinet. Within 48 hours the Israelis were presiding over the worst atrocity of the war. Unleashed within the vast refugee camps at Sabra and Shatila, anti-PLO Christian Phalangists slaughtered at least 800 men, women and children while Israeli troops looked the other way.

Weather

Rain, Mudslides in Northern California — In January, terrible rains and mudslides hit Northern California causing houses and roads to be covered with mud. The number of people killed was 31 and damages were estimated at $300 million.

Record Cold Storms Hit U.S. — The arctic air blew down from Canada on January 9, resulting in some of the United States' worst storms. Despite the fact that they took the lives of 261 people, they also froze roads in the Rocky Mountains and ruined the citrus crops in California.

Heavy Floods Hit Midwest —

From March 13 through March 20, rivers in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana overflowed. At Fort Wayne, Indiana, the streets were 26 feet deep in water and 9,000 people were driven from their homes.

Tornadoes Hit Southwest — The National Weather Service reported tornadoes that hit Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Kansas, New Mexico, and California sweeping through the Southwest from May 11 through May 13, killing 7 people. Hundreds of others had to evacuate their homes.

Rare Spring Storms — It began in California and worked its way across the Rockies, the Midwest, and the Northeast; this terrible storm consisted of thunder storms, tornadoes, and hailstones the size of baseballs. It lasted from April 1 to April 10 and killed at least 64 persons.

Southwest Hit by Tornadoes — Tornadoes swept through the Southwest causing planes to crash, destroying buildings, and forcing hundreds of people to evacuate their homes. Seven people were reported killed by these tornadoes that touched down in Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Kansas, New Mexico, and California.

Sports

A record 99-yard touchdown run was mastered by Dallas Cowboy Tony Dorsett in a January 3rd game against the Minnesota Vikings.

Super Bowl XVII was played on January 30, 1983, by the Miami Dolphins and the Washington Redskins. The Redskins took the title by a score of 34-17.

The 1982 Heisman Trophy winner Herschel Walker, from the University of Georgia, was only the seventh junior to receive the award.

The 1982 World Series played by the St. Louis Cardinals and the Milwaukee Brewers was won, after seven games, by the Cardinals.

The NFL Coach of the Year was awarded to Bill Walsh of the San Francisco '49ers.

The 1982 Wimbledon was won by Jimmy Connors and Martina Navratilova on July 3 and 4.

Arizona finally has a USFL football team, the Arizona Wranglers, owned by Jim Joseph and Bradford Liebman.

Throwing the entire '82 season off, the NFL players went on strike to gain a higher percentage of the profits usually given to owners. The strike lasted 57 days and the players were awarded $1.6 billion over a five-year period.

Obituaries

John Belushi, 33. Played such parts as the samurai of "Saturday Night Live" and the ferocious food-fighter of Animal House. Died of a drug overdose.

Ingrid Bergman, 67. Played in Casablanca (1942) with Humphrey Bogart. Three time Oscar winner; worked her last years knowing she was dying of cancer.

Eubie Blake, 100. Ragtime pianist and hit composer who opened Broadway to black songwriters.

Leonid Brezhnev, 75. Succeeding Nikita Krushchev in 1964, Brezhnev ruled the U.S.S.R. for 18 years.

Karen Carpenter, 32. With her brother Richard, formed a soft rock group "The Carpenters" that was popular in the 70's. Died of complications from anorexia nervosa.

Henry Fonda, 77. This supreme artist of the screen performed in 85 films. His last performance as Norman Thayer in On Golden Pond won him his first Academy Award.

Leon Jaworski, 77. The Watergate prosecutor who supplied the "smoking gun" that brought about Nixon's resignation, persuading the Supreme Court to force Nixon to release 64 White House tapes. Grace Kelly, 52. A regal film beauty who married Monaco's Prince Rainier, bringing dignity and a particular grace to her new role. Died in an auto accident.

Leroy "Satchel" Paige, 75. Due to racial discrimination, Paige was not admitted to the major leagues until he was 42. In 40 years of pitching, Paige played in 2,600 games.

Bess Truman, 97. The most retiring of recent First Ladies, won many women's votes for her husband Harry, who often introduced her as the "Boss."

Colophon:

The twenty-five members of the 1983 staff dedicated their time and effort to create the Mountain View High School La Vista, Vol. 7. It was printed in Marcelline, Missouri, by Herff Jones Yearbooks. Our Herff Jones representative was Ms. Jan Johnson. Herff Jones printed 2100 copies of 268 pages on 80 lb. Ainsworth textured paper.

The cover is quarterbound using two materials: a special order suede, and antique white leatherette. The spine and front lettering are stamped in gold foil.

The endsheets are parchment with 42 point Cloister print. The body copy is 12 point Cloister, and the captions are 8 point Cloister with boldface leads. The headlines are 42 point Cloister Italic, dropped initials are 42 point Cloister, and folio tabs are 18 point Cloister Italic.

On the division pages the headlines are 42 point Cloister Italic with a 72 point Cloister Italic initial. Copy is 24 point Cloister with a 42 point dropped initial.

We have great pride in publishing seventy-seven pages of four color. In addition, the Academics section is printed on beige colortex paper.

Dear Staff,

I'm sure you are all just as relieved as I am that the book is finally finished.

I'll never forget our first deadline when we were literally racing against the clock to get to the post office. Once I got there I had to plead with the postmaster to unlock the door. As he let me in, I was so ecstatic I could have hugged him. Just as a fine wine, we improved with time and the 56 pages due in a two week span seemed like a piece of cake.

As the deadlines came and went I knew sooner or later the Sports section would show up for class and stop requisitioning twenty-one pictures for an eight picture spread and that the Clubs section would eventually get the copy and the headlines to fit.

We were all confident that the Academics section would find everyone needed for the honors page and that Kelly would stop asking for more pages in the Senior section. And as the Activities section realized that Kathy's rejection of the spreads was not personal, the underclass section started to get their act together and put the Juniors with the Juniors, not with the Sophomores.

I won't mention the lost negatives in the dark room or the three photographers we lost in one week.

Despite all of the pressures and hard feelings at deadlines, we made it through one busy year. It is thanks to everyone that we were able to do such a "primo" job.

Well, Mrs. Hale, you can now sit back and let your blood pressure go back down.

Hopefully our winning tradition will go on. This was definitely the Year of the Toro.

Love,
Sylvia Kasprzyk
Editor-in-Chief

P.S. Mrs. Hale, I think I'm going to have a nervous breakdown.

We would like to extend extreme gratitude to the school administration and faculty, to the Mesa community, and to the students who offered support and encouragement to this production. We would also like to express great thanks to:

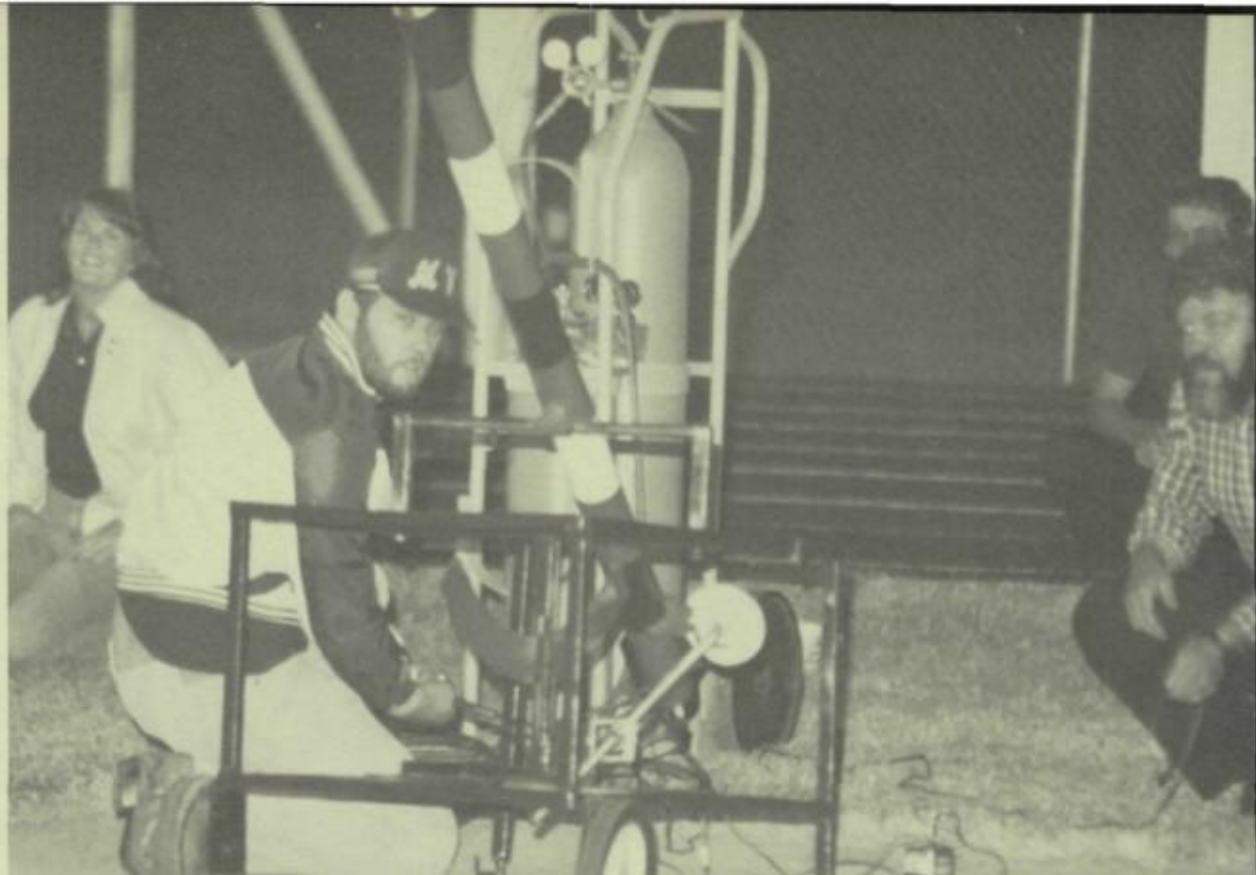

Arizona Visual Sports Network — football team shot

Active Teachers

With all of the Activities happening around school, it is very hard not to bump into some of the staff. From registration, sporting events, dances, to ski trips the teachers got involved, too.

Mr. Rex Rice and Mr. Tom Atkins prepare the cannon to shoot off at a home football game.

Mrs. Voth helps sophomore Andy Crimmons to arrange his schedule to fit all of his needed classes.

Going through the registration line for their last time are Renee Caccamese, Marti Ziebell, and Kaylene Hartzler.

Mr. Anderson, Mr. Vala, Mr. and Mrs. Guest, Mrs. and Mr. Campos and Mr. Atkins enjoy themselves on the Purgatory ski trip.

Saying Goodbye To A Year Of . . .

Now that another year has gone, we can proudly say we did not sit back and watch it go by. From the very first of the year we made our goals and set our standards; and then strived to meet every one. Whether it was in Academics, Clubs, or Sports we set out to be #1.

At the times when we did not reach the top we would come back fighting even harder, everytime. All the competition we saw and were involved in helped us become bigger and stronger Toros.

It made no difference if you were a Sophomore or a Senior, you knew when it came down to it that we were all one as a whole. Supporting each other through the highs and the lows just confirmed . . .

In the seven minutes between classes many students still take a few minutes to visit with friends.

Lonely junior Paul Phoenix wonders what life would be like to be a "free and easy" senior.

Senior Susan McKernan tries to squeeze in a few more minutes of studying before a Free Enterprise test.

Donna LaMorte, Tami Tyree, and Alex Chucti discuss who is going to eat all their doughnuts.

Brian Higginson waves to a friend after hurrying to go back to his locker to get a forgotten notebook.

Dan Wooters discusses the benefits of being in the services with a Marine recruiter.

Senior Scott Runzo contemplates what life would be like if he were a fish.

Playing with the teddy bears, John Armenta spends some of his free time in the student store.

Senior Sylvia Kasprzyk searches through her full locker for her American Government notes.

Mr. Hawkins stops Jim Glauser and Steve Frost to find out why they are wandering the halls.

Having a friendly discussion, Pat Tropio and Paula Heinz talk about the flower Edwin Alvarado gave her.

... Toro Times

... us of this fact.

Even though we were one, it did not mean our individualities could not come out. From the styles or trends in our hair-styles and clothing to the choices in our friends, our true personalities and preferences shined through.

Some of our accomplishments included: two All-American State Cross Country runners, three All-State Football players, four All-American Gymnasts, four National Merit Semi-Finalists, three National Merit Letters of Commendations, one Junior Miss winner and two runners up, two West Point appointments, an All-American High School band member, a State Twirl and Strut Champion, and an International Twirler of the Year. We were able to see that our hard work had paid off and we were not just average: for this was ... "The Year of the Toro."

A group of silly sophomores are caught playing around in the playground during lunch.

Linda,
So a wonderful,
generous, person. A.P.
History was a crock but Parker was a blast. Good but luck next year - were finally Seniors!
your friend
Patty Duck

Linda,
Being in Chemistry and Band with you has really been an advantage in each class.
You a fantastic girl
to know and hope to see you around next year!

Have a great summer!

Karen

Lynda,

It has been great having
you as my fellow faggott
in orchestra - even if you don't know how to spell
"Lynda". Keep working at whatever you want in life - make your dreams
come true.

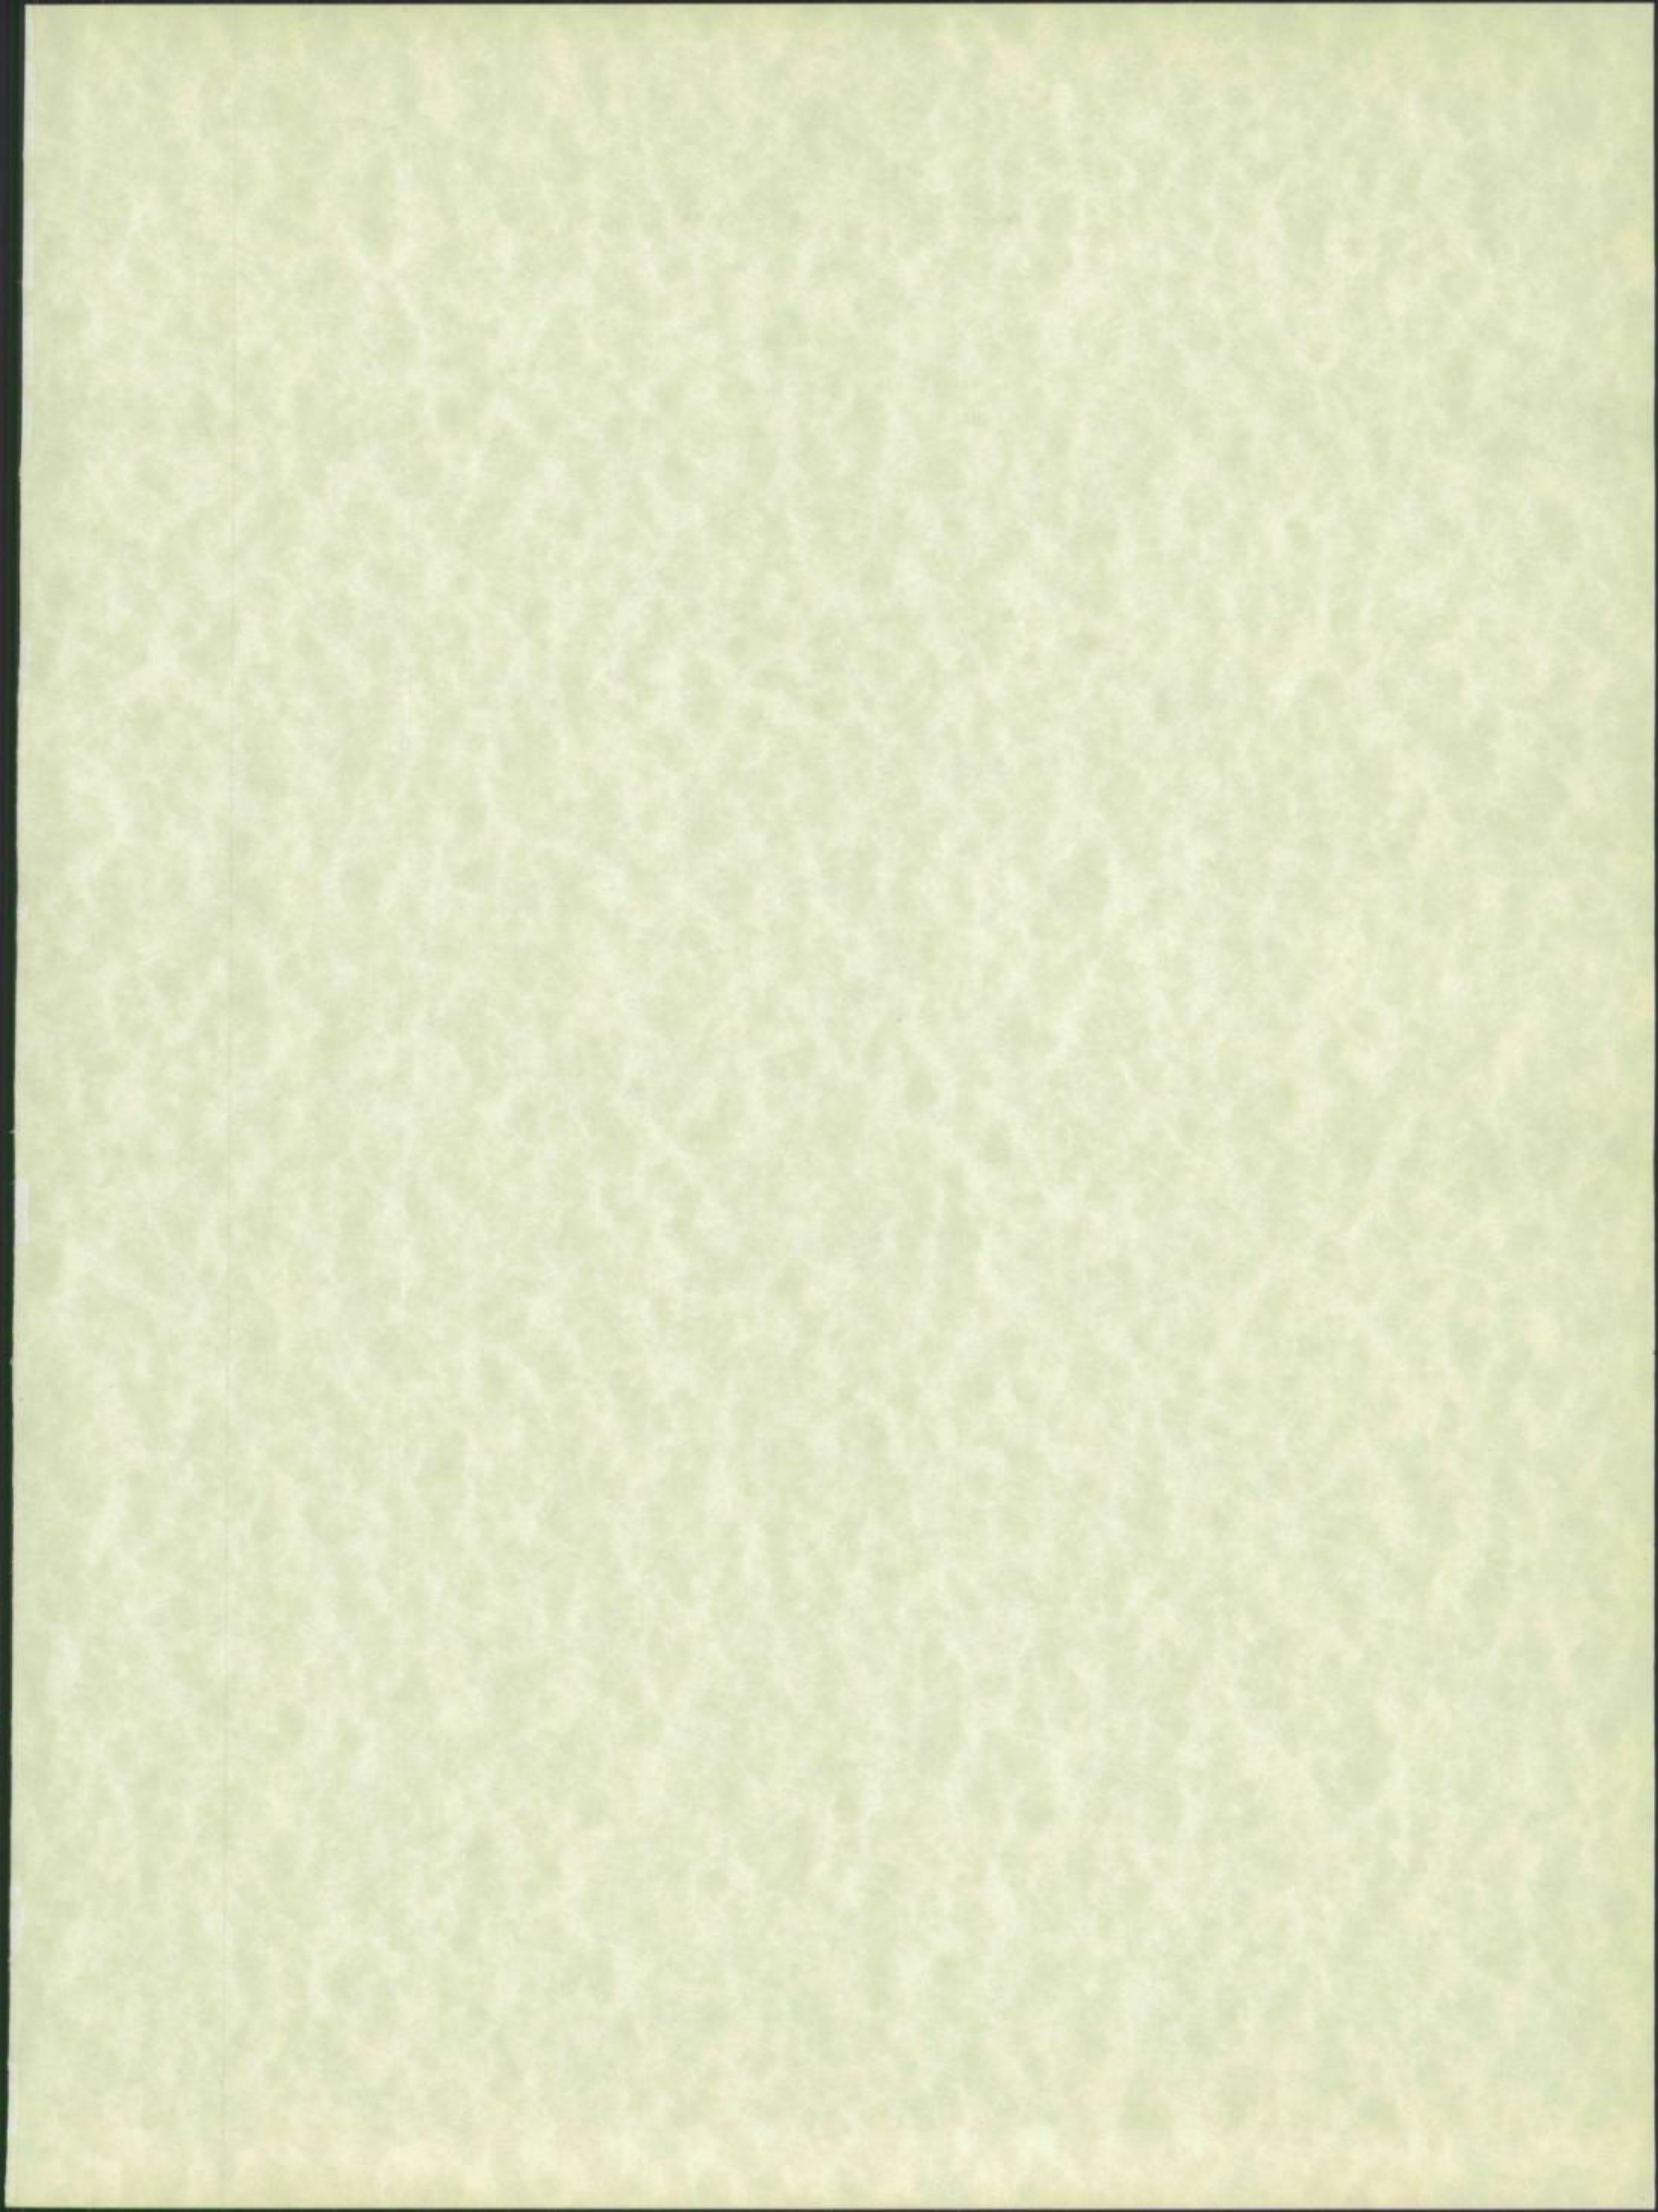

Keep in touch,
love,
Lynda

Linda,

It was nice to get to know you better this year.
I hope that we can get together this summer and
next year.

Paula & Andrea
See ya next year
in Orchestra
@Andrea

Linda-
Well here
we go at the end of another yr.
really can't believe
next yr. we will be mighty seniors.

Linda, been an Pt's been in American adventure this year. Sorry history given you too much of a hard time. Just kidding, Okay?
Good Luck and God Bless. See ya
next year.

Dear Linda, ← That's right isn't it?

Aren't you glad we made it through another year? How many does that make for us being at the same school together,

I am really glad that we have been going to the same school together for such a long time. You are a special person to me. Whenever you talk to me (which is alot of the time) I'm glad; I really mean that. You are my kind of girl. You know me; even better than I do myself. I glad I know you. Have a beautiful summer.

Love,

Your Friend For Life (and already has been for a long time).

Jeff McCreach

The Year of the Toro

Linda,
Well, it's been
a fun year in
land (and I guess American kit) but more fun. I'm glad are my friend. See
have a good summer.
See you next year.
Brad

Linda,
It's been a fun
year. I'm glad
that we're friends
hope you have a great
summer. Be Enlate

Linda,
It's been fun getting
to know you this year.
I got a real kick out of
bugging you in AP History, it was
a blast, but all in good humor,
right. See ya next year.
Brad

Linda,
It has been great
knowing you this year.
I've heard a lot about
you from Melanie, and
even she didn't give you
justice. You are a real special girl. Thanks for making our lunch hour
more fun.
Love

Valerie From

inda,
 I'm glad you rode to school & home with me otherwise it would have been very boring. You are a great friend. Maybe next year we'll have a close together. Keep in touch over the summer. Friends always,
 Teresa Nosselt

The Year of the Toro

Linda,
 It's been fun at
 lunch with you & us.
 Hope you have a great
 summer. Stay nice,
 Jennifer
